CONCURRENT RESOLUTIONS

Senators Mathewson, Singleton, Howard, McKenna, Westfall, Johnson, Maxwell, Caskey, Graves, Staples, Russell, Quick, Ehlmann, Lybyer, Childers, Jacob, Goode, Wiggins, Scott and Rohrbach offered the following concurrent resolution, which was referred to the Committee on Rules, Joint Rules and Resolutions:

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 30

WHEREAS, rural telecommunications customers have lesser toll-free calling scopes than do urban customers, and rural customers pay more on average in toll bills than do urban customers; and

WHEREAS, Community Optional Service (COS) was created to afford rural customers with toll-free calling scopes to lessen this disparity; and

WHEREAS, COS is of vital importance to rural customers, both in petitioning and target COS exchanges, which allows customers to reach friends, relatives, children, grandchildren, schools, medical providers, churches, and businesses on a toll-free basis; and

WHEREAS, in recent legislation enacted by the General Assembly, the intent was to foster competition as a substitute for regulation, where and when competition exists, and for the benefit of consumers in increased variety of service offerings, increased quality of service, and at lower prices. The legislation specifically retained the goals of universal service and parity of service between rural and urban areas. It was the intent of this legislation that rural customers not be harmed by increased competition; and

WHEREAS, recently the Public Service Commission (PSC) of the State of Missouri announced its decision to terminate COS by March 31, 1998; and

WHEREAS, the PSC failed to notify and give users of COS the opportunity to participate in this decision. The elimination of COS will be detrimental to rural customers and communities; and

WHEREAS, meaningful competition, and in some cases adequate facilities upon which increased competition can even be provided, is not yet present in the rural areas where COS is available, and is not expected to be available by March 31, 1998; and

WHEREAS, the PSC failed to protect rural customers by delaying the elimination of COS until it can be replaced by comparable or adequate substitutes for this vital service:

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that the members of the Missouri Senate of the Eighty-ninth General Assembly, the House of Representatives concurring therein, hereby direct the PSC to do the following:

- 1. Vacate the decision to eliminate COS by March 31, 1998.
- 2. Reopen the consideration of the decision as to whether to modify or eliminate COS.
- 3. Notify all affected members of the public, their local and state elected officials, and newspapers of general circulation, that the decision is being reconsidered, and announce local public hearings.

RESOLUTIONS

Senator Quick, joined by the entire membership of the Senate, offered the following resolution, which was read and adopted:

SENATE RESOLUTION NO. 970

WHEREAS, it is always a moment of great pride when the members of the Missouri Senate pause to recognize an individual whose tireless commitment to duty has contributed significantly to the overall effectiveness of this august legislative body; and

WHEREAS, Kyle Rex Adams of Jefferson City closed the door on his career with the Missouri Senate when he retired at the end of 1997 -- a situation that can best be described as an open-and-shut case; and

WHEREAS, Rex Adams began employment as a Doorkeeper for the Senate in 1986 and assumed the responsibilities of Head Doorkeeper in 1991, in which prestigious capacity he prudently used his head to courteously welcome or dismiss visitors who headed for the doors to the Chamber; and

WHEREAS, during his seven-year reign as "King of Doors", Rex Adams provided outstanding leadership and earned a reputation as a dedicated employee who served with honor, loyalty, and distinction; and

WHEREAS, Rex Adams endeared himself to countless individuals over the years through his sense of humor by singing to the Chamber staff prior to the beginning of the session, by organizing pools speculating on when the Senate would adjourn, and by refusing to wear his hearing aids for fear that he might hear "a little too well"; and

WHEREAS, Rex Adams developed a considerable degree of expertise on the history of the Senate Chamber and the entire Capitol, and enthusiastically imparted that knowledge to numerous school groups and other guests who had occasion to visit this historic statehouse; and

WHEREAS, Rex Adams will be missed at the Capitol this session and in years to come when the Senators sadly realize that their source of candy which had always been stashed in his desk drawer has been finally depleted; and

WHEREAS, Rex Adams came to the Senate with a wealth of experience gained teaching history and coaching basketball at Jefferson City Junior College, which honored him by closing its doors in 1958, and serving as Assistant Principal at Jefferson City High School, where he justifiably earned the nickname "Sexy Rexie";

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that we, the members of the Missouri Senate, Eighty-ninth General Assembly, join unanimously in expressing appreciation to Rex Adams for his faithful service and in wishing him a pleasant retirement spending time with his wife and children; visiting his Gerbes Coffee Club cronies; watching the Missouri Tigers and other sports events on television when he can manage to stay awake; and opening any other new doors that might suit his fancy like improving his golf game; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Secretary of the Senate be instructed to prepare a properly inscribed copy of this resolution for Rex Adams.

Senator McKenna requested unanimous consent of the Senate that the rules be suspended and that Rex Adams be allowed to address the members of the Senate, which request was granted.

Mr. Rex Adams assumed the dais and addressed the membership.

President Pro Tem McKenna resumed the Chair.

The Joint Committee appointed to wait upon the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, Duane Benton, escorted the Chief Justice to the dais where he delivered the State of the Judiciary Address to the Joint Assembly:

1998 State of the Judiciary

The Supreme Court of Missouri

Chief Justice Duane Benton

January 14, 1998

Mr. Speaker, Mr. President, members of the 89th General Assembly:

It is an honor today to discuss with you the state of the judiciary.

Over the years, I have worked with the General Assembly in a variety of roles. My first connection to state government was working as an intern in the House. Later, while in law school, I drafted legislation for members of the House. More recently, the Senate confirmed me to four different positions on boards and in the executive branch. I've been at hearings that seemed to last forever, and others that were over in seconds. I must say that we all look much better at 10:30 in the morning, early in the session, rather than at 10:30 at night at the end of session.

Over the years, I have learned to approach the legislature respectfully but directly; prepared but with common sense. In that spirit, my message to you today is straightforward. The judiciary in 1998 is working smarter than ever. We in the courts, though, need your support if we are to continue to provide the highest level of service, access and justice to the people of this state.

The judiciary is working smarter today than ever before. Facing increasing caseloads, the courts are efficiently serving Missourians. The judiciary is doing more and more with proportionately less and less.

The judicial branch is the smallest of the three branches of state government. We spend less than three-fourths of 1 percent of the total state budget. Though a separate, equal branch of government, the judiciary is smaller than 13 of the 15 departments in the executive branch. While our cost is small, our impact is great; we deliver services to all citizens of the state. Court employees work in all 114 counties and the City of St. Louis, in all 34 senate districts, and in almost all, if not all, of the 163 House districts.

1) We decide cases that affect citizens throughout this state, from traffic offenses and consumer-merchant disputes, to death penalty cases and multi-million dollar lawsuits.

2) We provide ways for people to resolve their disputes informally in small claims court, and for abused persons to get immediate protection from their abusers.

3) We do all this in a way that benefits both the people of this state as well as those who make the system work: quickly and for as little expense to the state as possible.

People sometimes think that courts impact mostly lawyers, yet almost one-half of the cases in Missouri courts ordinarily do not involve the lawyers hired by your constituents. Since 1983, leaving aside traffic and ordinance violations, total caseload in Missouri courts has increased over one-half; 58 percent to be precise. During that same 15 year period since 1983, the number of trial judges you provide by law grew by less than 2 percent - one new circuit judge and five new associate circuit judges.

As in the past, the judiciary will not recommend an increase in the number of judges. It is a tribute to our hardworking judges that we do not need to request new judgeships. Missouri judges not only work hard, they also - as judges for the whole state - are flexible enough to serve where needed. Each day, I sign orders temporarily sending judges to work in high-volume courts, often miles from their homes. I stand ready any time to discuss with you, individually or in committee, those laws that require judgeships in courts with smaller caseloads, rather than where they are most needed on a more permanent basis in the courts with heavier caseloads.

When we think of the judiciary, we tend to think only of the judges that serve the public. Judges, of course, are one cornerstone of the judicial system. However, they cannot do their work without the necessary staff. I am reminded of a joke I used to hear before I became a judge: "The Supreme Court is where the finest legal minds in Missouri gather - to serve as law clerks to the judges." Seriously, those of you who have been to court have seen that court clerks make the system work. Clerks perform essential functions in the judicial process - handling case filing, notifying those involved in cases, collecting and disbursing money, recording court action and proceedings, and managing juries. Just like judges, the number of clerks and other employees funded by the budget has barely increased in recent years, yet there have been dramatic increases in the number of cases handled by these employees due to increases in crime, drug use, juvenile delinquency, adult abuse, divorce, and all kinds of litigation.

While the number of clerks has remained about the same, child support collection responsibilities have grown even faster than the case filing rate, and now are a major part of the workload in many circuit courts. In fact, open child support cases have increased over 144 percent during the last ten years. The task is huge - court clerks collected 395 million dollars in child support payments during fiscal year 1997.

Due to the tremendous caseload growth and shifts in Missouri population, many local courts are doing much more with the same number of employees. The clerk shortage varies from court to court. Statewide it is severe. The Circuit Court Budget Committee - composed of judges from all over the state - has requested a total of 147 new clerks in the fiscal year 1999 budget. This number may sound shocking. Please keep it in perspective. There have been no - zero - additional court clerks appropriated for the last two years, so any increase will cover a three year period. The 1,703 court clerks all over Missouri are dedicated and hardworking, but they cannot indefinitely continue to keep pace with escalating workloads.

There is another way you can alleviate the clerk shortage. We must leverage their time and effort, taking advantage of technology to streamline filing, casefile handling, trial, appeal and disposition of cases. We in the judiciary must continue to work smarter, but we need your help to do so.

Most of you are familiar with statewide court automation, which will automate the records and accounting of the judiciary statewide. Thank you for your vision and foresight in enacting the initial law in 1994 and renewing it last year. Carved in stone in the Rotunda of this building, it says, "Where there is no vision the people perish." You have shown admirable vision and leadership in automating Missouri's courts, just as you have recently automated this very chamber.

Even more recently, during the past two years, you passed legislation allowing automation of the judicial accounting systems. Before, judicial accounting was so convoluted that there was no dream of computerizing these systems. You may recall the diagram with all the lines going everywhere that Chief Justice Holstein showed you during his first State of the Judiciary speech. You have provided an efficient way to manage court records, to go hand-in-hand with the legal authority for computerization you previously passed.

We stand on the threshold of similar results in overall efficiency. The biggest changes from court automation are just beginning to happen. During the past few years, the clerks, attorneys, and judges on the Court Automation Committee have spent a great deal of time and effort to design a computer system that will meet the needs of Missourians for many years to come. We have moved deliberately, intentionally so, in order to avoid problems that have occurred with other computer systems - some costing two and three times as much as ours - that simply failed to work when installed. When the taxpayer's money and the judiciary's reputation are at stake, the system must work from the time installed.

I have news to announce today. The new system is up and running as I speak. Montgomery County has implemented the new case management system, which operates on the underlying structure of hardware and software designed by the Court Automation Committee. The clerks and judge in Montgomery County like the reduced paperwork, and say they now can do their jobs better. For civil and probate cases, a manual "paper" system is now automated. Previously, court clerks manually created a file, a fee sheet and a docket sheet - then manually indexed and scheduled the case. In the new system, these are all automatically created.

The case management software is next to be installed in Jackson County in Kansas City and Independence, and in the Eastern District Court of Appeals in St. Louis. Once the system works in a smaller rural court, large urban courts, and an appellate court, the system is ready for any court in Missouri. By July 1, the system will be at the "ready to wear" point - that is, proven in small courts, large courts and appellate courts.

We now are at a critical turning point. Under the original plans, installing the new system in all courts was scheduled to take several years, so that some courts would not have the system until the year 2004. Rather than wait years for many of your constituents to see the benefits of court automation, we can provide these benefits now, at a lower total cost to the state. The benefits are clear; in addition to the more efficient installation process I have described:

- We can provide law enforcement, social services agencies and other courts information about juvenile offenders in order to deal better with juvenile delinquency throughout the state, and implement the new juvenile justice system you enacted in 1995.
- We can accommodate electronic filing in the courts - to speed case handling; to provide public access to court information; and to allow electronic storage and maintenance of tons of court filings, which is swallowing up all available storage space in some county courthouses.
- We can build a jury management system that will reflect the population and permit more Missourians to participate as jurors.
- We can make court records more accessible to more Missourians, easier and at lower cost.

These improvements do not come without cost. However, total costs will be reduced and service improved, if the automated systems are installed within a reasonable time frame.

The Governor has discussed these improvements with me and other representatives of the judiciary. He has expressed support for court automation and for the need to install the system statewide within a reasonable time, as opposed to piecemeal installation. I anticipate that the Governor's budget will properly accommodate these needs. I urge you to consider and support this budget item due to its great benefit to your constituents, the people of Missouri.

Though court automation is the most pressing challenge in the administration of justice, we in the judiciary are also "working smarter" on other issues. The Missouri Judicial Conference recently appointed a Task Force on Drug Courts. Drug courts are working in Jackson, Lafayette, Buchanan and Scott Counties and in St. Louis City. Drug courts have been successful. Graduates have obtained the education and job training to make it in the world without drugs. The vast majority go on with their lives, do not re-offend, and have become productive members of society.

I thank Senators Caskey and Rohrbach, and Representatives May and Ross for serving on this multidiscipline task force, which also includes prosecutors, defense lawyers, educators, job training and drug treatment professionals, and others willing to discuss the structure and procedure of drug courts. Please use the Task Force on Drug Courts as a resource as you tackle the challenges of illegal drugs.

We in the judiciary are always willing to consider other ways to improve judicial operations. Last year, you seriously studied appointing circuit clerks rather than electing them. The circuit clerk has evolved to a highly responsible position that should be a professional manager of court business. In many ways, the circuit clerk should be similar to the positions of the Secretary of the Senate and the Chief Clerk of the House - professional positions here in the legislature. Professionalizing these positions in the judiciary is worthy of your consideration.

I appreciate the opportunity to address you today regarding the state of your judiciary. As Chief Justice, I look forward to working with you over the next two sessions. If you have any questions about court automation, the judicial budget, or any other issue affecting the administration of justice, please let me know. Together we can continue the Missouri tradition: a judiciary of the highest integrity, providing service, access and justice to all Missourians.

On motion of Senator Quick, the Joint Session was dissolved and the Senators returned to the Chamber where they were called to order by President Pro Tem McKenna.

State of the State Address

By

Governor Mel Carnahan

January 21, 1998

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, Mr. President Pro Tem, Distinguished State Officials, Members of the 89th General Assembly, and Citizens of the State of Missouri:

INTRODUCTION

When we seek the foundation for a new century, we need not travel far. That foundation is found in the faces of our children.

As governor, I receive all kinds of letters. But the ones I treasure most come from these young people. When they share their questions...their ideas...their dreams, you cannot help but realize how important the work we do here really is.

One of the letters I received came from a fifth grader from St. Louis named John Doyle, who wanted me to visit his school. In that letter, John was thinking ahead. He included a P.S. that read: "I wrote the President a letter and also asked him to come to my school. So make sure you aren't coming on the same day the president is."

Another letter I will always remember came from Jessica Herron of Paris. She just wrote me to say that she thought I looked pretty good for my age. Her civics teacher had told her how old I was, and she thought I looked twenty years younger. So naturally, I wanted you to meet such a perceptive and intelligent young lady. I might add that Jessica ended her letter by telling me to "keep looking good." Jessica, I just want you to know I'm trying.

Rachel Higginbotham from St. Louis sent me a leadership survey, which I filled out and returned to her. And then there are the thank you letters I get for all we are doing for education--like the one I received last summer from Ariel Roads of Moberly. Ariel had just attended our Missouri Scholars Academy where gifted students who will be high school juniors are selected to participate in three weeks of learning and enrichment activities to help them realize the full potential of their abilities.

We also have some other students from last year's Scholars Academy here today--Cecilia Kuntz of Cape Girardeau; Cali Howitt from Springfield; Shayla Day from New Madrid; Grant Ewert of Hannibal; Jean Yu from St. Louis; and Tanisha Robinson from Liberty. Would you all please stand, so we can show you how much we appreciate your being here.

One other Missouri Scholar is with us today, and I want to tell you a little bit about him because he is a young man whose letter made a great impression on me. That young man is Zachary Burden of Kansas City. Zachary attends Oak Park High School where he is on the Student Council, is deeply involved in music, and was President of his Sophomore class and of the Honor Society. As if that isn't enough, he has worked to coordinate activities for children at a local homeless shelter and worked with a home for teenage mothers. Zachary says, "the best way to lead is by example," and certainly Zachary is living by that creed. In his letter, Zachary talks about what makes a true leader, and he describes things such as standing up for what you believe, caring about the people you represent, and knowing when to stand firm and when to compromise. Zachary Burden wants to be a public officeholder, and I believe he would be a great one. Zachary, would you please stand.

Many of these young people like Zachary Burden may be public servants one day--some of them sitting in the very seats you occupy now. These young people will be running our businesses...caring for the sick and needy...teaching the generation to follow. That's why I wanted you to meet them.

They are the faces of the future...our future...Missouri's future. And the decisions we make over the next few months will have a direct effect on the path their lives will take.

Our legacy should be a solid foundation for these young people to build on--a Missouri that answers their questions...encourages their ideas...fulfills their dreams.

ECONOMY

Building a solid foundation for the faces of the future begins with a strong economy. Missouri's economy is packing a solid punch with all major economic indicators continuing to flex their muscles.

Since I took office, we have created more than 317,000 new jobs. In fact, over the years of our administration, Missouri's job creation rate has grown a full percentage point faster than the nation's. Our exports have doubled. Last year, Missourians' personal income rose 5.9 percent. And at 3.5 percent, our current unemployment rate has reached an historic low--almost a full percentage point below the national rate.

Our economy is doing so well because business has confidence in Missouri. We have established a good climate for investment. We are keeping the quality of our work force up. We have a highly skilled work force that is one of the most productive in the country. And we have a well-defined educational network that gives workers the skills they will need to succeed in the emerging high-tech economy of the 21st century.

We are keeping the cost of doing business down. For example, by increasing the competition between insurance companies to provide workers compensation coverage, premiums for businesses have declined by approximately $236 million--with a 10 percent decrease just in the last year alone.

We will continue to work toward improving our business climate and creating jobs for Missourians. And we will continue to keep the financial affairs of state government in order.

We will continue to keep our debt and tax burden low. Currently, only one state in the entire nation has lower combined state and local taxes. And year after year, we balance our state budget.

I want to acknowledge our two budget chairs, Senator Lybyer and Rep. Franklin, as well as the members of their committees, for their role in keeping our state on sound financial footing. Because of our careful budgeting practices, excellent financial management, and pro-active approach to economic development, Missouri continues to be nationally recognized.

TAX CUTS

As a result of our strong economy, we can offer Missourians new tax relief again this session. Last year, we left more money in our citizens' pockets by cutting the state sales tax on food. This year, we want to cut taxes on another necessity--the home.

Our tax cut, called the Homestead Property Tax Credit, would help Missourians who pay real property tax or rent. Homeowners making under $100,000 per year would be eligible for a partial tax credit on property tax paid. Renters would be given partial tax credit.

Most Missouri households would realize a $70 savings from this action. For the average married couple, this tax cut would equal almost ten percent of their property tax. The tax cut would begin in tax year 1998 and benefit approximately 2.9 million Missourians. Providing this new tax cut will enhance our national reputation for budgetary responsibility and offer more relief for our working families.

A second action I am proposing offers enhanced property tax relief to those Missourians who need it most--our seniors and Missourians with disabilities. We currently offer a property tax credit for seniors and the disabled known as the Circuit Breaker, which allows many of these citizens to stay in their own homes rather than being forced to go into nursing homes or other care facilities.

Under our proposal, we will increase the number of elderly and disabled Missourians who qualify for this credit, increase the number who receive the maximum credit, and increase the amount of partial credit for those who are eligible. We will raise the income thresholds for married filers so that those earning up to $27,000 could participate. For single filers, those earning up to $25,000 will now be eligible.

Taken together, our Homestead Property Tax Credit and the expansion of our Seniors and Disabled Property Tax Credit will provide broad-based and meaningful tax relief, just as we did last year when we eliminated the state sales tax on food.

When our 1997 and 1998 tax cuts are fully implemented, we will have cut Missourians' taxes by over $460 million a year. This is significant relief that targets the two basics in every Missouri household--food and shelter. In addition, these tax cuts strike a solid balance between our desire to offer Missourians additional tax relief and the need to safeguard the investments we are making to improve their quality of life.

By maintaining that critical balance, we ensure that our strong economy and quality of life will continue. Our efforts to improve the education of our children, move people from welfare into the work force, and keep our citizens safe from dangerous criminals must advance if we are to continue to improve our quality of life.

Compromising our investments of today would sacrifice the future of the faces of tomorrow.

EARLY CHILDHOOD CARE AND EDUCATION

From the moment these faces of tomorrow come into the world, they are looking to us...for love...for care...for instruction. The latest research confirms that the direction our children's lives will take is substantially shaped by the first five years of their lives. So it's crucial that we offer our children the resources and experiences they need to grow into bright, responsible adults.

Failure to provide the best care and education for our children in the beginning means we will be paying a high price in the end. Criminal behavior, illiteracy, poor health, and lack of productivity and personal responsibility are much more difficult to reverse later in life and certainly more costly.

We must provide our children with the opportunities they need to be successful. Yet, today, more and more parents must seek help in providing early care and education. More than 60 percent of our parents with children under the age of six work outside the home.

The constantly increasing number of families with two working parents, single working parents, and former welfare recipients moving into work means more Missouri children are receiving more of their care and education outside the home than ever before. Unfortunately, those services are not always easily available, affordable, or of the best quality. And no parents are at their best, personally or professionally, if they must worry constantly about finding someone that they can afford and trust to take good care of their child.

Building on the work of our Commission on Early Childhood Care and Education, I am proposing a three-pronged initiative in this area. First, we must expand the availability of early childhood care and education. Second, we must improve the quality of this education and care. And third, we must enhance health screenings during the critical first three years.

To expand availability, we propose encouraging public schools to create voluntary pre-kindergarten programs we call "Jump Start." The schools who choose to offer these opportunities will have local control and be able to tailor their approach to be responsive to the needs of their individual communities.

Some voluntary pre-kindergarten opportunities such as the Schools of the 21st Century in Independence are already springing up in our state. We need to encourage this trend by providing start-up grants and other incentives. The result will be more options for more parents and their children.

Expanding access to child care for low-income working families must also be targeted. Since I took office, we have moved more than 82,000 people off of the welfare rolls.

But if our success is to continue, access to affordable child care is imperative. Therefore, our budget will establish 3,900 more child care openings, specifically aimed at helping parents move from welfare to work.

Our second area of concentration targets improving the quality of child care. To help ensure a quality child care work force, we call for scholarships to workers to cover 75 percent of the cost of the continuing training required to work in a licensed child care facility.

In addition, we will bring more training opportunities to in-home providers through our Educare initiative. To encourage the private sector to provide more high quality child care options, we propose redirecting resources to increase reimbursements by 20 percent to our best child care facilities--those that are "accredited".

Our third priority will be early childhood screenings. For the first time, developmental screenings of children under the age of two will be available to every Missouri family that wants them.

Early detection and treatment of delays and problems are critical, so we must make every effort to identify those conditions before it is too late to correct them. We currently have a good network that provides developmental screenings, but it is not complete.

Our initiative will expand access to our nationally recognized Parents As Teachers program and other services that promote healthy development for our youngest citizens. We believe by concentrating on these three areas...availability, quality, and screenings...we can ensure the success of the most important investment in our future--our children.

We all know child care can never take the place of parents. It is only an assurance that in the working parents' absence their child is receiving support, protection, and enrichment. Making available this kind of quality care helps ensure that our faces of the future will enter school ready to learn.

HEALTHY CHILDREN

All of our faces of the future should be healthy faces. Currently, we have 175,000 Missouri children who have no health insurance. Some of them are from families who cannot afford insurance for anyone in the family. Others come from families where employers provide insurance for a parent, but no family coverage, and the cost of an individual policy for that child is more expensive than their family can afford. Many of these children are deprived of good preventive health care services and treatment.

This is unacceptable. By insuring these children, we can prevent many childhood illnesses and disabilities and the expense that accompanies them. Last year, we proposed offering parents access to low-cost private health insurance for their children through our Kids Care Initiative. Even though it enjoyed broad public support and would have made a great positive impact on the health of Missouri's children at no cost to state taxpayers, the legislature failed to pass Kids Care.

Fortunately, the President and Congress both agreed to greatly expand the national commitment to children's health. So last August, our administration filed for a federal waiver to take full advantage of the new federal resources for children's health care.

Today, I am proposing a Children's Health Initiative that builds on our existing Medicaid managed care program to save administrative costs, speed start-up, and ensure consistency of children's health care. The new federal resources will allow us to expand the availability of this managed care coverage for children up to 300 percent of the federal poverty level.

Our proposal also includes strong safeguards to make certain children are not transferred out of existing private insurance plans. These safeguards include co-pays and sliding scale premiums if this side effect, sometimes called "crowd-out," occurs.

Last year, both the Missouri House and the Senate approved language providing children's health care up to 300 percent of the poverty level. By giving your legislative approval of this action again, we can make health care coverage available for 90,000 of Missouri's uninsured children.

Through proper health care and child care, we can ensure our faces of the future get the best start in life.

EDUCATION

Once our children have a healthy start in life, we must ensure that the next stage of their development is strong.

They must receive the education and training they need from our schools to succeed in the work force of a new century. Providing those opportunities for the faces of the future is the most important priority of our administration.

The reforms of our Outstanding Schools Act continue to improve the quality of education in classrooms all across Missouri. Reduced class sizes, more computers, better vocational education, more highly trained teachers, curriculum improvements, higher academic expectations, and more thorough testing of progress are all having an impact on the level of learning in our schools.

Once again this year, we will be fully funding our new, more equitable school foundation formula so all of our students can have the tools they need to achieve. I am also optimistic about the progress that is being made to remove our urban schools from the control of the federal courts.

The joint committee that studied our urban education problems last year did a thorough job. Certainly, there are a number of issues to be worked out, but the committee's recommendations contain ideas worthy of thoughtful consideration.

Our administration is committed to two goals: bringing court-ordered desegregation to an end and even more importantly, ensuring that all Missouri students, both urban and rural, have access to a quality education.

I look forward to working with you during the session as we search for ways to fully achieve those two goals.

Another barrier to some of our children receiving a quality education is unfit teachers. Recent newspaper stories focus on the fact that there are some teachers who are still in the classroom after having been convicted of felonies.

While the vast majority of our teachers are exemplary role models, we cannot tolerate the presence of teachers who may be dangerous to our children's well-being. These unfit teachers--few as they may be--have the potential to do irreparable harm to countless students.

I have already issued an executive order that directs our state agencies to compare the records of certified teachers against the records of serious felony convictions. Now I am asking you to take the necessary legislative action to remove any unfit teachers from the classroom immediately.

Our proposal would automatically revoke the certificates of teachers convicted of a serious felony crime such as murder, rape, sodomy, child molestation, and drug trafficking. We must see that our children are not placed at risk because of criminals in our classrooms.

Another danger to students in the classroom is inappropriate material on the Internet. Thanks to our expanding computer technology, the Internet has become indispensable in opening the libraries of the world to even the most remote schools.

I am proud that you and I have helped schools get access to the Internet. However, unlike our school libraries, the Internet is not strictly designed for students and permits access to inappropriate material for young people.

I want to make the Internet safe for students by helping schools purchase software that blocks access to these inappropriate sites. This software can prevent certain words from being used in computer searches, blocks access to particular sites, or allows access to only approved sites.

While some schools have begun to purchase this software, their purchases have been limited due to financial constraints. Our initiative would make grants available so that within two years, this software to make the Internet safe for our children could be purchased for any school that wants it.

We must continue to expand access to technology for our students. But we must do so in a way that protects our children. I believe this effort will allow us to keep that critical balance.

In addition to access to technology, it is imperative that our young people realize how important post secondary education is to their ability to compete in the world today. A high school diploma is no longer sufficient for much of today's job market.

A thirteenth and fourteenth year of education has a dramatic effect on our citizens' earning power. Yet the rising cost of receiving any education above high school is a major barrier for many Missourians. So we must be committed to helping more of our citizens obtain the skills they desire.

President Clinton's Hope Scholarship has been approved on the federal level to offer up to a $1,500 federal tax credit on tuition and fees for students who want that thirteenth and fourteenth year. But even with the Hope Scholarship, we have gaps. The Hope Scholarship does not cover some of our low-income students.

Therefore, I am proposing a Bridge Scholarship this year that will bridge the gaps between the Hope Scholarship and other sources of financial aid. Under the Bridge Scholarship plan, students who cannot take full advantage of the Hope Scholarship and other financial aid could still receive up to $1,500 a year with a lifetime maximum of $3,000.

Bridge Scholarships will provide us with a seamless federal-state approach that will give our citizens access to the opportunity of a 13th and 14th year of education.

CRIME

Just as important as shaping our faces of the future for success is our responsibility to protect them from harm.

Our administration has already made great strides in reducing crime rates through our tougher sentences for dangerous criminals and violent juvenile offenders, our lifetime sentences for sexual predators, and our increase in better trained and equipped law enforcement officers.

But right now, another threat is stalking our citizens throughout the state--the monster known as methamphetamine. It lurks in homes, barns, sheds, cars, and hotel rooms, leaving a trail of contamination, death, and destruction in its wake.

Once trapped in "meth's" addiction, the victims face severe health damage or in many cases, death. The reason for its popularity in the drug market is that it's easy and cheap to produce and buy.

Our state has become a "Meth Mecca" because our geographic location provides convenient access to any part of the United States and our rural nature makes it easy to hide an illegal lab in isolated areas. These labs can explode, endangering the lives of innocent people nearby. Law enforcement officers are often seriously injured just from the fumes when they attempt to break up one of these labs. And each pound of "meth" produced in one of these labs creates five to six pounds of hazardous waste to pollute our air, water, land, and livestock.

With all of the dangers "meth" carries with it, it is imperative that we make a coordinated effort to rid our state of "death by meth."

As a result of recommendations from our "Meth" Summit last fall, I am proposing a three-pronged attack to crack down on "crank"--an attack that:

---toughens laws against manufacturing and trafficking;

---gives more resources to law enforcement;

---and expands treatment options for those addicted.

I am urging that we impose penalties that place "meth" manufacturing and trafficking in the same criminal categories as other highly addictive drugs. I'm calling for reductions in the amount of "meth" that is necessary as evidence to gain a felony conviction. I'm ordering new investigative, crime lab, and officer safety equipment as well as new "meth" training for officers. And I'm proposing new prevention and early intervention services to catch at-risk young people early.

We must stop this "epidemic of evil" from spreading across our state and infecting our citizens.

As I mentioned earlier, as a result of legislation the General Assembly passed in 1996, our courts and prosecutors now have the tools to sentence individual "sexual predators" to a life sentence. However, because of pending constitutional issues at that time, our new law did not apply to those who are already in our correctional and mental health systems.

But now that the courts have settled the issue, I believe we must take further steps to make certain that the citizens of our state are not victimized by these threats to our society.

I urge the General Assembly to enact legislation which allows the departments of Corrections and Mental Health to identify and detain in custody those individuals who are likely to attack again but are not subject to our current sexual predator law. This is another significant step in giving Missouri citizens the safety they deserve.

In providing that safety, I believe there is another action we must take this legislative session. We must fund the replacement of our Jefferson City Correctional Center for the safety and security of both the community and the correctional staff.

This prison has served the citizens well since 1836 but has become increasingly more costly to operate and maintain over the years. By replacing this facility now, we will enhance public safety while saving Missouri taxpayers $49 million.

I want to acknowledge Senator Lybyer for his work on this issue. He has been a longtime supporter of this replacement because of its benefits to public safety and its cost-effectiveness.

By continuing to provide strong weapons to fight crime in Missouri, I believe we can keep our commitment to protect the hope that is found in our faces of the future.

CONCLUSION

As you know, I visit with many schoolchildren. And in those faces, I can see that hope burning. In those young people's eyes, I see the intelligence, the enthusiasm, and the energy that will build a better Missouri for all of us. Our actions in the months ahead will give our children that chance.

Recently, when I had a public event with a group of third graders, at the end of our time together, one little boy was giving interviews to the media.

When one of my staff remarked that the next Walter Cronkite was standing there, the little boy's teacher told her: "You don't know how much today means to him. All his life he has been shuffled from one foster home to another. But today, he's somebody."

I believe all our citizens should have the opportunity to be somebody. I know I will never forget the action of someone years ago that inspired me to want to be somebody.

When I first ran for state representative, he gave me a buckeye. Now in the Ozarks, where I come from, a buckeye is supposed to bring good luck. But to me, receiving that buckeye was more than that. To me, that simple gift said: "Someone believes in you."

I carried that buckeye for years in my pocket, and every time I touched it, no matter what was happening in my life, good or bad, that message came back to me: "Someone believes in you." The man who gave me that buckeye was my father.

Even to this day, I keep one in my desk drawer. And opening that drawer is like opening up all that love, that strength, and that inspiration that he gave to me.

So before we came here today, I gave each of these young people a buckeye. I gave it to them in the hope that it will always be a reminder, no matter where life may take them, that we believe in them.

And that's why we're here today. Because we believe in our young people. We believe in our state. We believe in our future.

May God grant us the strength and the wisdom in the days ahead to act on that faith--a faith in the faces of the future.

On motion of Senator Quick, the Joint Session was dissolved and the Senators returned to the Chamber where they were called to order by Senator Wiggins.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 31

An act by concurrent resolution and pursuant to Article IV, Section 8, to repeal 10 CSR 80-2.013 relating to requirements for an application for a solid waste disposal facility permit.

WHEREAS, The Department of Natural Resources filed notice of proposed rulemaking for 10 CSR 80-2.013 on October 10, 1996, and filed the order of rulemaking with the Committee on Administrative Rules on March 24, 1997 with notice of intent to file with the Secretary of State on April 23, 1997; and

WHEREAS, the proposed rule requires an applicant for a solid waste disposal permit to conduct two separate public meetings known as "public awareness and community involvement sessions" at an estimated cost of $10,000 to the applicant; and

WHEREAS, Sections 260.200 to 260.241, RSMo, specifies the requirements for an application for a permit which not only does not require the applicant to conduct public meetings, but rather requires the Department to hold such public hearings; and

WHEREAS, the sole authority delegated to the Department to promulgate and adopt rules and regulations is specifically limited in Section 260.225.1.(3), RSMo, to "such rules and regulations relating to solid waste management systems", and 10 CSR 80-2.013 relates to the permit application process rather than to solid waste management systems; and

NOW THEREFORE, the General Assembly finds that:

3. The Department has no authority to increase the requirements for obtaining a permit; and
4. Section 260.225, RSMo, limits the authority of the Department to issue rules to those rules related to the solid waste management systems and no authority has been delegated to the department to issue rules which create additional, substantive requirements necessary to apply for a permit.

NOW THEREFORE, the eighty-ninth General Assembly, upon concurrence of a majority of the members of the Senate and a majority of the members of the House of Representatives, hereby permanently revokes 10 CSR 80-2.013; and

Dear Bill:

This is in regard to the Missouri Emergency management Commission. On March 3, 1997, I was reappointed to represent the Senate on the Commission. Unfortunately, due to the schedule of the Senate as well as other commitments I have been unable to actively participate as a member of the Commission. As I review the Commission's scheduled meetings for 1998, I have determined that the same conflicts will continue to occur. Therefore, I request that you appoint another member of the Senate to serve in my place.

Thank you.

I hope you will act favorably on this request.

WHEREAS, founded in 1848 by representatives of six New York newspapers, the Associated Press was initially created to pool efforts for collecting news from ships arriving from Europe at their first port of call in Halifax, Nova Scotia, and for offsetting the cost of transmitting the information to New York by telegraph; and

WHEREAS, the Associated Press has enjoyed a long and rich history of delivering news to the people through increasingly-complicated technological means, an evolution witnessed by millions of Americans as the company employed the use of the telegraph, the wireless telegraph, the teletype machine, the computer, and the Internet; and

WHEREAS, the Associated Press has been responsible for informing Americans about the assassination of President Lincoln, for transmitting a play-by-play from the 1916 World Series, for carrying timely news accounts regarding our soldiers at war, and for creating a continuously updated online news service on the Internet called The WIRE; and

WHEREAS, president of the Associated Press since 1985, Louis D. Boccardi recently described AP's mission in 1848 as "getting the news right and telling it fairly and fully", a mission which endures today with a responsibility heavier than ever now that news flashes around the globe at the rate of 9,000 words per minute; and

WHEREAS, workers at the Associated Press have time and time again brought pride to their employer as evidenced by winning the coveted Pulitzer Prize forty-three times, eighteen for writing and twenty-five for pictures; and

WHEREAS, the Associated Press is now composed of 237 bureaus (144 in the United States and 93 in 71 other countries) and 3,500 editorial, communications, and administrative employees worldwide who transmit an average of 20 million words and 1,000 photos on a typical day to 1,700 U.S. daily and weekly newspapers, 6,000 U.S. radio and television stations, and 8,500 international subscribers, all the while 210 international broadcasters are receiving APTV, AP's global video news service, or SNTV, a sports joint venture video service:

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that we, the members of the Missouri Senate, Eighty-ninth General Assembly, unanimously join in congratulating the Associated Press on the occasion of this historic Sesquicentennial celebration and in wishing this tremendous news organization continued success in the next century and beyond; and

SECOND REGULAR SESSION

FIFTEENTH DAY--MONDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1998

The Senate met pursuant to adjournment.

President Pro Tem McKenna in the Chair.

The Chaplain offered the following prayer:

Our Father in Heaven, the psalmist wrote, "He put a new song in my heart, a hymn of praise." Lord, we don't want our hymns of praise to be new, we don't want to always be finding fault with one another, we don't want to always be complaining and always be seeking for things for ourselves. We want our praise to be the usual. We want our thanksgiving to be an everyday occurrence and our thoughts of others to be of their virtues. Forgive our negative and judgmental attitudes. Help us to be positive and helpful to all. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag was recited.

Senator Quick announced that photographers from the Associated Press had been given permission to take pictures in the Senate Chamber today.

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE CHANGE

BE IT RESOLVED by the Senate of the Eighty-ninth General Assembly, Second Regular Session, that Senate Rule 28. 20 be amended as follows:

"Rule 28. 20. The Committee on Rules, Joint Rules and Resolutions shall consider and report on all rules for the government of the senate and joint rules when requested by the senate, and shall examine and report upon all resolutions and other matters which may be appropriately referred to it. The committee shall see that bills and amendments are properly perfected and printed. The committee shall examine all Truly Agreed To and Finally Passed bills carefully, and report that the printed copies furnished the senators are correct. Upon the written request of the sponsor or floor handler of a bill, the committee may recommend that any such bill on the calendars for perfection or house bills on third reading be called up or considered out of order in which the bill appears on that calendar. A recommendation to consider bills out of order shall require approval by a majority of the committee with the concurrence of two-thirds of the senate members. No floor debate shall be allowed on the motion to adopt the committee report.

The Committee shall examine bills placed on the Consent Calendar and may, by majority vote, remove any bill from the consent calendar within the time period prescribed by Rule 45, that it determines is too controversial to be treated as a consent bill.

The Committee shall review each concurrent resolution prior to its assignment to Committee to determine whether it has the force and effect of law. If it is so determined, the Committee will report its findings to the Senate and if the Committee Report is approved, the resolution shall be treated in its passage, in all respects, as is a bill."

Senator McKenna offered the following resolution, which was referred to the Committee on Rules, Joint Rules and Resolutions:

When a question has once been decided by a vote of the senate, any senator voting on that side which prevails may move for a reconsideration of the vote at any time within three legislative days, excluding legislative days wherein the roll is not called, after the day on which the vote was had, except votes ordering bills printed as perfected, which may be reconsidered at any time before third reading of such bills[.]; provided however, that no motion for reconsideration is in order on any subject matter which is no longer in possession of the body. [When a motion is made to reconsider the vote by which a bill failed of perfection, the presiding officer shall briefly state the nature of the bill and, thereupon, the vote on the motion to reconsider shall be immediately taken without interrogation or debate.] When a motion is made to reconsider a vote by which a matter passed or failed, the presiding officer shall briefly state the nature of the matter and, thereupon, the vote on the motion to reconsider shall be immediately taken without interrogation or debate. When a vote by which a bill was declared perfected is reconsidered, any previous actions on the bill are subject to reconsideration for three legislative days thereafter. All motions to reconsider shall be decided by a majority vote of the senators elected. SENATE RESOLUTION NO. 1184

BE IT RESOLVED by the Senate of the Eighty-ninth General Assembly, Second Regular Session, that Senate Rule 45 be amended as follows:

"Rule 45. There shall be a senate consent calendar. The sponsor of a senate bill shall first give notice of desire to have a bill placed upon the senate consent calendar by filing in writing, with the chairman of the committee to which the bill was referred, a notice of intent one day prior to a committee hearing. The notice of intent shall set forth the nature of the legislation, the fact that it is not a controversial bill, and a request that the senate committee recommend that the bill be placed upon the consent calendar. The bill will go to the senate consent calendar if, a quorum being present, it receives a unanimous affirmative vote of do pass by all members present at the senate committee to which the bill was referred, and there is thereafter a motion made and unanimously carried by affirmative vote of all those present that it be placed upon the consent calendar. Any bill approved by committee, for consent, may be reported to the consent calendar at any time the Senate goes to the order of business of committee reports. When a bill is placed upon the consent calendar, third reading shall not commence until the fifth legislative day. During this four-day period, starting with the first day the bill appears on the consent calendar in the Journal any member or the Committee on Rules, Joint Rules and Resolutions may, by filing written objection, direct that it be returned to the senate committee from which it was reported for action in accordance with the rules of the senate. A senate bill placed upon the senate consent calendar shall not be subject to amendment, except for committee amendments, and after the committee amendments have been disposed of shall be third read as though it had previously been perfected. Any house bill reported to the consent calendar shall not be subject to amendment, except for committee amendments. If returned to committee, the chairman may report the bill to the senate at the next time that order of business is taken up, without further action of the committee. SECOND REGULAR SESSION

TWENTY-FOURTH DAY--TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 17, 1998

The Senate met pursuant to adjournment.

President Pro Tem McKenna in the Chair.

The Chaplain offered the following prayer:

Our Father in Heaven, we don't always enjoy being the light of the world and the salt of the earth. The responsibility can be awesome. Because Jesus told us, "Ye are the light of the world", we know that our choice isn't whether we will be the light. Our choice is what kind of a light we will be. Help us to be the kind of light that shows the way and not the kind that shines on people to see what they are up to. In Jesus Name we pray. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag was recited.

A quorum being established, the Senate proceeded with its business.

The school district reports shall be distributed to all media outlets serving the district, and shall be made available to all district patrons, and to each member of the general assembly representing a legislative district which contains a portion of the school district.

2. The department of elementary and secondary education shall develop multiple reporting models which may be used by school districts for their public reports. The information reported shall include, but not be limited to, enrollment, rates of pupil attendance, high school dropout rate, staffing ratios, including the district ratio of students to all teachers, to administrators, and to classroom teachers, the average years of experience of professional staff and advanced degrees earned, student achievement as determined through the currently used assessment system [developed pursuant to section 160.518], student scores on the SAT or ACT, along with the percentage of students taking each test, average teachers' and administrators' salaries compared to the state averages, average salaries of noncertificated personnel compared to state averages, average per pupil expenditures for the district as a whole and for each building in the district which has pupils at the same grade level as another building in the district, voted and adjusted tax rates levied, assessed valuation, percent of the district operating budget received from state, federal, and local sources, extracurricular activities offered and the costs associated with each activity, the number of students eligible for free or reduced lunch, school calendar information, including the number of days and hours for student attendance, parent-teacher conferences, and staff development or in-service training, data on course offerings and rates of participation in parent-teacher conferences, special education programs, early childhood special education programs, parents as teachers programs, vocational education programs, gifted or enrichment programs, and advanced placement programs, data on the number of students continuing their education in postsecondary programs and information about job placement for students who complete district vocational education programs, and the district's most recent accreditation by the state board of

SENATE AMENDMENT NO. 9

Amend Senate Bill No. 780, Page 2, Section A, Line 13, by inserting immediately after all of said line the following:

"160.538. 1. By July 1, 1996, the state board of education shall develop a procedure and criteria for determining that a school in a school district is "academically deficient", except that location shall not be a criterion used in determining which schools are academically deficient. In making such a determination for any school, the state board of education shall consider the results for the school from the assessment system developed pursuant to the provisions of section 160.518, or any existing assessment system currently in use, together with the results from the education audit performed under subsection 2 of this section.

2. (1) Prior to a decision that a school is academically deficient, the state board of education shall appoint an audit team of at least ten persons to conduct an education audit of the school to determine the factors that have contributed to the lack of student achievement at the school as measured by the district assessment system and make a finding as to whether the school is academically deficient. The specific standards and implementation of the education audit shall be pursuant to rules adopted by the state board of education, except that no standard may be used to find a school academically deficient until that school has been informed that the standard will be applied prior to the giving of the assessment to the students. Further, no standard shall be applied to any school in this state until and unless it is applied to every school in this state.

(2) The audit team shall report its findings to the state board. If the audit team finds that the school is academically deficient, then the state board shall declare the school to be academically deficient.

(3) Following a decision that a school is academically deficient, the state board of education shall, within sixty days, appoint a management team of at least ten persons to conduct any necessary investigations and make any recommendations the team believes are appropriate for the administration and management of the school necessary to promote student achievement and any additional resources which are required. Funds shall be provided, upon appropriation, under subsection 2 of section 160.530 for the operation of the audit and management teams and resources needed in the district.

(4) In the appointment of the audit and management teams, the state board of education shall appoint such persons so that at least fifty percent of the team is composed of active classroom teachers at the elementary, middle or secondary level grades. Further, no more than two persons of said team may be employees of the department of elementary and secondary education. At least one member of the team shall be a public school superintendent from another district.

(5) The management team shall report its findings and recommendations to the state board within sixty school days. The commissioner of education shall, subject to availability of resources, provide resources to the district as recommended by the management team. The management team report may also include recommendations for one or more of the following: conducting a recall election for each member of the district school board, suspension of indefinite contracts for certificated staff in the school and a one-year maximum length for new or renewal of contracts for the superintendent or the principal of the school. The education audit team shall reevaluate the school two years after the filing of the management team report. No recall election, suspension of indefinite contract or maximum contract length limit may be imposed unless the audit team determines that the school is still academically deficient.

(6) The commissioner of education shall, upon such recommendation by the management team and upon approval by the state board of education, but only in the case where the education audit team finds the school academically deficient in its reevaluation audit under subdivision (5) of this subsection, order an election in the district to be held for the purpose of conducting a recall election of all members of the district school board. The recall election shall be held on the next available election day thereafter as provided under section 115.123, RSMo, and shall be conducted pursuant to chapter 115, RSMo, except as otherwise provided herein.

3. (1) A district school board member of a district which contains a school declared academically deficient may be removed by the voters in a recall election. Such election shall be held upon the submission of a petition signed by voters of the district equal in number to at least twenty-five percent of the number of persons voting at the last preceding election to elect a district board member. The petition shall be filed with the election authority and the secretary of the district board of education, which petition shall contain a general statement of the grounds for which the removal is sought. The signatures to the petition need not all be appended to one paper, but each signer shall add to his signature his place of residence, giving the street and number. One of the signers of each such paper shall make oath before an officer competent to administer oaths that the statements therein made are true as he believes and that each signature to the paper appended is the genuine signature of the person whose name it purports to be.

(2) Within ten days from the date of filing such petition the election authority shall examine and ascertain whether said petition is signed by the requisite number of voters; and he shall attach to the petition his certificate, showing the result of the examination. If the petition is shown to be insufficient, it may be amended within ten days from the date of said certificate. The election authority shall, within ten days after such amendment, make like examination of the amended petition and, if his certificate shall show the same to be insufficient, it shall be returned to the person filing the same, without prejudice, however, to the filing of a new petition to the same effect. If the petition shall be deemed to be sufficient, the election authority shall submit the same to the district board without delay. If the petition shall be found to be sufficient, the district board shall order the question to be submitted to the voters of the district.

(3) If a majority of the voters vote in favor of retaining the member, he shall remain in office and shall not be subject to another recall election during his term of office except as provided in subsection 2 of this section. If a majority of voters vote to remove the member, his successor shall be chosen as provided in section 162.261, RSMo.

4. Under subdivision (5) of subsection 2 of this section, a district board of education may suspend indefinite contracts and issue probationary contracts to all certificated staff in a school declared academically deficient. However, no such indefinite contract for any person may be suspended without providing the person an opportunity for a due process hearing, conducted according to the provisions of chapter 536, RSMo, and only after the school board demonstrates that the performance of the person's duties contributed to the school meeting the criteria for being declared academically deficient. The district board of any school which is declared academically deficient shall not issue new contracts or renew contracts to either the superintendent or the principal of the academically deficient school for a period of longer than one year. The provisions of other law to the contrary notwithstanding, a probationary teacher in a school declared academically deficient shall not be granted an indefinite contract until one year after such school is no longer determined to be academically deficient, and the probationary teacher meets all other requirements for permanent status required by law."; and

Further amend the title and enacting clause accordingly.

"163.011. As used in this chapter unless the context requires otherwise:

(1) "Adjusted gross income":

(a) "District adjusted gross income per return" shall be the total Missouri individual adjusted gross income in a school district divided by the total number of Missouri income tax returns filed from the school district as reported by the state department of revenue for the second preceding year;

(b) "State adjusted gross income per return" shall be the total Missouri individual adjusted gross income divided by the total number of Missouri individual income tax returns, of those returns designating school districts, as reported by the state department of revenue for the second preceding year;

(c) "District income factor" shall be one plus thirty percent of the difference of the district income ratio minus one, except that the district income factor applied to the portion of the assessed valuation corresponding to any increase in assessed valuation above the assessed valuation of a district as of December 31, 1994, shall not exceed a value of one;

(d) "District income ratio" shall be the ratio of the district adjusted gross income per return divided by the state adjusted gross income per return;

(2) "Average daily attendance" means the quotient or the sum of the quotients obtained by dividing the total number of hours attended in a term by resident pupils between the ages of five and twenty-one by the actual number of hours school was in session in that term. To the average daily attendance of the school term shall be added the full-time equivalent average daily attendance of summer school students. "Full-time equivalent average daily attendance of summer school students" shall be computed by dividing the total number of hours attended by all summer school pupils by the number of hours required in section 160.011, RSMo, in the school term. For purposes of determining average daily attendance under this subdivision, the term "resident pupil" shall include all children between the ages of five and twenty-one who are residents of the school district and who are attending kindergarten through grade twelve in such district. If a child is attending school in a district other than the district of residence and the child's parent is teaching in the school district or is a regular employee of the school district which the child is attending, then such child shall be considered a resident pupil of the school district which the child is attending for such period of time when the district of residence is not otherwise liable for tuition. Average daily attendance for students below the age of five years for which a school district may receive state aid based on such attendance shall be computed as regular school term attendance unless otherwise provided by law;

(3) "District's tax rate ceiling", the highest tax rate ceiling in effect subsequent to the 1980 tax year or any subsequent year. Such tax rate ceiling shall not contain any tax levy for debt service;

(4) "Eligible pupils" shall be the sum of the average daily attendance of the school term plus the product of two times the average daily attendance for summer school;

(5) "Equalized assessed valuation of the property of a school district" shall be determined by multiplying the assessed valuation of the real property subclasses specified in section 137.115, RSMo, times the percent of true value as adjusted by the department of elementary and secondary education to an equivalent sales ratio of thirty-three and one-third percent and dividing by either the percent of true value as determined by the state tax commission on or before March fifteenth preceding the fiscal year in which the valuation will be effective as adjusted by the department of elementary and secondary education to an equivalent sales ratio of thirty-three and one-third percent or the average percent of true value for the highest three of the last four years as determined and certified by the state tax commission, whichever is greater. To the equalized locally assessed valuation of each district shall be added the assessed valuation of tangible personal property. The assessed valuation of property which has previously been excluded from the tax rolls, which is being contested as not being taxable and which increases the total assessed valuation of the school district by fifty percent or more, shall not be included in the calculation of equalized assessed valuation under this subdivision;

(6) "Free and reduced lunch eligible pupil count", the number of pupils eligible for free and reduced lunch on the last Wednesday in January for the preceding school year who were enrolled as students of the district, as approved by the department in accordance with applicable federal regulations;

(7) "Guaranteed tax base" means the amount of equalized assessed valuation per eligible pupil guaranteed each school district by the state in the computation of state aid. To compute the guaranteed tax base, school districts shall be ranked annually from lowest to highest according to the amount of equalized assessed valuation per pupil. The guaranteed tax base shall be based upon the amount of equalized assessed valuation per pupil of the school district in which the ninety-fifth percentile of the state aggregate number of pupils falls during the third preceding year and shall be equal to the state average equalized assessed valuation per eligible pupil for the third preceding year times two and one hundred and sixty-seven thousandths. The average equalized assessed valuation per pupil shall be the quotient of the total equalized assessed valuation of the state divided by the number of eligible pupils;

(8) "Membership" shall be the average of (1) the number of resident full-time students and the full-time equivalent number of part-time students who were enrolled in the public schools of the district on the last Wednesday in September of the previous year and who were in attendance one day or more during the preceding ten school days and (2) the number of resident full-time students and the full-time equivalent number of part-time students who were enrolled in the public schools of the district on the last Wednesday in January of the previous year and who were in attendance one day or more during the preceding ten school days, plus the full-time equivalent number of summer school pupils. "Full-time equivalent number of part-time students" is determined by dividing the total number of hours for which all part-time students are enrolled by the number of hours in the school term. "Full-time equivalent number of summer school pupils" is determined by dividing the total number of hours for which all summer school pupils were enrolled by the number of hours required pursuant to section 160.011, RSMo, in the school term. Only students eligible to be counted for average daily attendance shall be counted for membership;

(9) "Operating levy for school purposes" for districts making transfers pursuant to subsection 4 of section 165.011, RSMo, based upon amounts multiplied by the guaranteed tax base, or making transfers pursuant to subsection 7 of section 165.011, RSMo, or making payments or expenditures related to obligations made pursuant to section 177.088, RSMo, or any combination of such transfers, payments or expenditures, means the sum of tax rates levied for teachers and incidental funds in the payment year and shall be, after all adjustments and equalization of the operating levy, no less than the minimum value required in section 163.021 for eligibility for increases in state aid as calculated pursuant to section 163.031 [and no greater than a maximum value of four dollars and sixty cents per one hundred dollars assessed valuation.], and, for other districts, means the sum of tax rates levied for incidental, teachers, debt service and capital projects funds with no more than eighteen cents of the sum levied in the debt service and capital projects funds. Any portion of the operating levy for school purposes levied in the debt service and capital projects funds in excess of a sum of ten cents must be authorized by a vote of the people, after August 28, 1993, approving an increase in the operating levy, or a full waiver of the rollback pursuant to section 164.013, RSMo, with a tax rate ceiling in excess of the minimum tax rate or an issuance of general obligation bond. In no case shall the operating levy for school purposes for use in section 163.031 be greater than a maximum value of four dollars and sixty cents per one hundred dollars assessed valuation. To equalize the operating levy, multiply the aggregate tax rates for teachers, incidental, and building funds by either the percent of true value, as determined by the state tax commission on or before March fifteenth preceding the fiscal year in which the evaluation will be effective as adjusted by the department of elementary and secondary education to an equivalent sales ratio of thirty-three and one-third percent, or the average percent of true value for the highest three of the last four years as determined and certified by the state tax commission, whichever is greater, and divide by the percent of true value as adjusted by the department of elementary and secondary education to an equivalent sales ratio of thirty-three and one-third percent, provided that for any district for which the equivalent sales ratio is equal to or greater than thirty-three and one-third percent, the equalized operating levy shall be the adjusted operating levy. For any county in which the equivalent sales ratio is less than thirty-one and two-thirds percent, the state tax commission shall conduct a second study in that county and shall use a sample at least twice as large as the one originally used. If the new ratio is higher than the original ratio provided by this subdivision, the new ratio shall be used for the purposes of this subdivision and for determining equalized assessed valuation pursuant to subdivision (5) of this section. For the purposes of calculating state aid pursuant to section 163.031, for any district which has not enacted a voluntary tax rate rollback nor increased the amount of a voluntary tax rate rollback from the previous year's amount, the tax rate used to determine a district's entitlement shall be adjusted so that any decrease in the entitlement due to a decrease in the tax rate resulting from the reassessment shall equal the decrease in the deduction for the assessed valuation of the district as a result of the change in the tax rate due to reassessment. The tax rate adjustments required under this subdivision due to reassessment shall be cumulative and shall be applied each year to determine the tax rate used to calculate the entitlement; except that whenever the actual current operating levy exceeds the tax rate calculated pursuant to this subdivision for the purpose of determining the district's entitlement, then the prior tax rate adjustments required under this subdivision due to reassessment shall be eliminated and shall not be applied in determining the tax rate used to calculate the district entitlement;

(10) "School purposes" pertains to teachers and incidental funds;

(11) "Teacher" means any teacher, teacher-secretary, substitute teacher, supervisor, principal, supervising principal, superintendent or assistant superintendent, school nurse, social worker, counselor or librarian who shall, regularly, teach or be employed for no higher than grade twelve more than one-half time in the public schools and who is certified under the laws governing the certification of teachers in Missouri;

(12) "Adjusted operating levy", the sum of tax rates for the current year for teachers and incidental funds for a school district as reported to the proper officer of each county pursuant to section 164.011, RSMo;

(13) "Current operating costs", all expenditures for instruction and support services excluding capital outlay and debt service expenditures less the revenue from federal categorical sources, food service, student activities and payments from other districts.

163.021. 1. A school district shall receive state aid for its education program only if it:

(1) Provides for a minimum of one hundred seventy-four days and one thousand forty-four hours of actual pupil attendance in a term scheduled by the board pursuant to section 160.041, RSMo, for each pupil or group of pupils, except that the board shall provide a minimum of one hundred seventy-four days and five hundred twenty-two hours of actual pupil attendance in a term for kindergarten pupils. If any school is dismissed because of inclement weather after school has been in session for three hours, that day shall count as a school day including afternoon session kindergarten students. When the aggregate hours lost in a term due to inclement weather decreases the total hours of the school term below the required minimum number of hours by more than twelve hours for all day students or six hours for one-half day kindergarten students, all such hours below the minimum must be made up in one-half day or full day additions to the term, except as provided in section 171.033, RSMo;

(2) Maintains adequate and accurate records of attendance, personnel and finances, as required by the state board of education, which shall include the preparation of a financial statement which shall be submitted to the state board of education the same as required by the provisions of section 165.111, RSMo, for districts;

(3) Levies an operating levy for school purposes of not less than one dollar and twenty-five cents after all adjustments and reductions on each one hundred dollars assessed valuation of the district;

(4) Computes average daily attendance as defined in subdivision (2) of section 163.011 as modified by section 171.031, RSMo. Whenever there has existed within the district an infectious disease, contagion, epidemic, plague or similar condition whereby the school attendance is substantially reduced for an extended period in any school year, the apportionment of school funds and all other distribution of school moneys shall be made on the basis of the school year next preceding the year in which such condition existed.

2. [No school district shall receive more state aid, as calculated in section 163.031, for its education program than it received per eligible pupil for the school year 1990-91, unless it levies an operating levy for school purposes of not less than two dollars after all adjustments and reductions beginning with the tax year which commences January 1, 1993. For the 1994-95] Beginning with the tax year which commences January 1, 1998, and for the 1998-99 school year and subsequent tax and school years, no school district shall receive more state aid, as calculated under section 163.031 for its education program, exclusive of categorical add-ons, than it received per eligible pupil for the school year 1993-94, unless it has an operating levy for [current] school purposes, as determined pursuant to section 163.011, of not less than two dollars and seventy-five cents after all adjustments and reductions [beginning with the tax year which commences January 1, 1994], with no more than ten cents of this tax rate levied in the debt service and capital projects funds and eligible for entry on line 1 of the state school aid formula contained in subsection 6 of section 163.031; except that, beginning in the 1997-98 school year, any district which is required, pursuant to article X, section 22 of the Missouri Constitution, to reduce its operating levy below the minimum tax rate otherwise required under this subsection shall not be construed to be in violation of this subsection for making such tax rate reduction. Pursuant to section 10(c) of article X of the state constitution, a school district may levy the operating levy for school purposes required by this subsection less all adjustments required pursuant to article X, section 22 of the Missouri Constitution if such rate does not exceed the highest tax rate in effect subsequent to the 1980 tax year. Nothing in this section shall be construed to mean that a school district is guaranteed to receive an amount not less than the amount the school district received per eligible pupil for the school year 1990-91. The provisions of this subsection shall not apply to any school district located in a county of the second classification which has a nuclear power plant located in such district or to any school district located in a county of the third classification which has an electric power generation unit with a rated generating capacity of more than one hundred fifty megawatts which is owned or operated or both by a rural electric cooperative except that such school districts may levy for current school purposes and capital projects an operating levy not to exceed two dollars and seventy-five cents less all adjustments required pursuant to article X, section 22 of the Missouri Constitution.

3. No school district shall receive more state aid, as calculated in section 163.031, for its education program, exclusive of categorical add-ons, than it received per eligible pupil for the school year 1993-1994, if the state board of education determines that the district was not in compliance in the preceding school year with the requirements of section 163.172, until such time as the board determines that the district is again in compliance with the requirements of section 163.172.

4. The department of elementary and secondary education shall evaluate the correlation between district tax rates and district assessed valuation per pupil following each biennial property tax reassessment and shall report its findings to the governor and the general assembly by December first of the year following each reassessment. The findings shall include a calculation of the minimum required property tax rate necessary to maintain a correlation of zero or less between district property tax rate and district assessed valuation per pupil and a report of assessed valuation per pupil and district property tax rate for all districts.

5. No school district shall receive state aid, pursuant to section 163.031, if such district was not in compliance, during the preceding school year, with the requirement, established pursuant to section 160.530, RSMo, to allocate revenue to the professional development committee of the district.

6. No school district shall receive more state aid, as calculated in section 163.031, for its education program, exclusive of categorical add-ons, than it received per eligible pupil for the school year 1993-1994, if the district did not comply in the preceding school year with the requirements of subsection 7 of section 163.031.

7. No school district shall receive state aid, pursuant to section 163.031, if the district failed to make a required payment in the preceding year to the school building revolving fund pursuant to section 166.300, RSMo."; and

Further amend said bill and page, section 164.221, line 11, by inserting immediately after said line the following:

"165.011. 1. The following funds are created for the accounting of all school moneys: teachers' fund, incidental fund, free textbook fund, capital projects fund and debt service fund. The treasurer of the school district shall open an account for each fund specified in this section, and all moneys received from the county school fund and all moneys derived from taxation for teachers' wages shall be placed to the credit of the teachers' fund. All tuition fees, state moneys received under sections 162.975, RSMo, and 163.031, RSMo, and all other moneys received from the state except as herein provided shall be placed to the credit of the teachers' and incidental funds at the discretion of the district board of education. The portion of state aid received by the district pursuant to section 163.031, RSMo, based upon the portion of the tax rate in the debt service or capital projects funds, respectively, which is included in the operating levy for school purposes pursuant to section 163.011, RSMo, shall be placed to the credit of the debt service fund or capital projects fund, respectively. Money received from other districts for transportation, and money derived from taxation for incidental expenses shall be credited to the incidental fund. Money apportioned for free textbooks shall be credited to the free textbook fund. All money derived from taxation or received from any other source for the erection of buildings or additions thereto and the remodeling or reconstruction of buildings and the furnishing thereof, for the payment of lease purchase obligations, for the purchase of real estate, or from sale of real estate, schoolhouses or other buildings of any kind, or school furniture, from insurance, from sale of bonds other than refunding bonds shall be placed to the credit of the capital projects fund. All moneys derived from the sale or lease of sites, buildings, facilities, furnishings and equipment by a school district as authorized under section 177.088, RSMo, shall be credited to the capital projects fund. Money derived from taxation for the retirement of bonds and the payment of interest thereon shall be credited to the debt service fund which shall be maintained as a separate bank account. Receipts from delinquent taxes shall be allocated to the several funds on the same basis as receipts from current taxes, except that where the previous years' obligations of the district would be affected by such distribution, the delinquent taxes shall be distributed according to the tax levies made for the years in which the obligations were incurred. All refunds received shall be placed to the credit of the fund from which the original expenditures were made. Money donated to the school districts shall be placed to the credit of the fund where it can be expended to meet the purpose for which it was donated and accepted. Money received from any other source whatsoever shall be placed to the credit of the fund or funds designated by the board.

2. The school board may expend from the incidental fund the sum that is necessary for the ordinary repairs of school property and an amount not to exceed the sum of expenditures for classroom instructional capital outlay, as defined by the department of elementary and secondary education by rule, in state-approved area vocational-technical schools and .06 dollars per one hundred dollars equalized assessed valuation multiplied by the guaranteed tax base for the second preceding year multiplied by the number of resident and nonresident eligible pupils educated in the district for the second preceding year for classroom instructional capital outlay, including but not limited to payments authorized pursuant to section 177.088, RSMo. Any and all payments authorized under section 177.088, RSMo, except as otherwise provided in this subsection, for the purchase or lease of sites, buildings, facilities, furnishings and equipment and all other expenditures for capital outlay shall be made from the capital projects fund. If a balance remains in the free textbook fund after books are furnished to pupils as provided in section 170.051, RSMo, it shall be transferred to the teachers' fund. The board may transfer the portion of the balance remaining in the incidental fund to the teachers' fund that is necessary for the total payment of all contracted obligations to teachers. If a balance remains in the debt service fund, after the total outstanding indebtedness for which the fund was levied is paid, the board may transfer the unexpended balance to the capital projects fund. If a balance remains in the bond proceeds after completion of the project for which the bonds were issued, the balance shall be transferred from the incidental or capital projects fund to the debt service fund. After making all placements of interest otherwise provided by law, a school district may transfer from the capital projects fund to the incidental fund the interest earned from undesignated balances in the capital projects fund.

3. Tuition shall be paid from either the teachers' or incidental funds.

4. Other provisions of law to the contrary notwithstanding, the school board of a school district that satisfies the criteria specified in subsection 5 of this section may transfer from the incidental fund to the capital projects fund an amount not to exceed the greater of zero or the sum of .18 dollars per one hundred dollars equalized assessed valuation multiplied by the guaranteed tax base for the second preceding year multiplied by the number of resident and nonresident eligible pupils educated in the district for the second preceding year and the amount to be expended for transportation equipment that is considered an allowable cost under state board of education rules for transportation reimbursements during the current year and any amount necessary to satisfy obligations of the capital projects fund for state-approved area vocational-technical schools and an amount not to exceed .06 dollars per one hundred dollars equalized assessed valuation multiplied by the guaranteed tax base for the second preceding year multiplied by the number of resident and nonresident eligible pupils educated in the district for the second preceding year less any amount transferred pursuant to subsection 7 of this section, provided that any amount transferred pursuant to this subsection shall only be transferred as necessary to satisfy obligations of the capital projects fund less any amount expended from the incidental fund for classroom instructional capital outlay pursuant to subsection 2 of this section. For the purposes of this subsection, the guaranteed tax base and a district's count of resident and nonresident eligible pupils educated in the district shall not be less than their respective values calculated from data for the 1992-93 school year.

5. In order to transfer funds pursuant to subsection 4 of this section, a school district shall:

(1) Meet the minimum criteria for state aid and for increases in state aid for the current year established pursuant to section 163.021, RSMo;

(2) Not incur a total debt, including short-term debt and bonded indebtedness in excess of ten percent of the guaranteed tax base for the preceding payment year multiplied by the number of resident and nonresident eligible pupils educated in the district in the preceding year;

(3) Set tax rates pursuant to section 164.011, RSMo;

(4) First apply any voluntary rollbacks or reductions to the total tax rate levied to the teachers' and incidental funds;

(c) Limit annual installment payments on such obligations to an amount no greater than the amount of the payment for the first full year of the obligation, including all payments of principal and interest, except that the amount of the final payment shall be limited to an amount no greater than two times the amount of such first-year payment;

(d) Limit such payments to leasing nonathletic, classroom, instructional facilities as defined by the state board of education through rule; and

(e) Not offer instruction at a higher grade level than was offered by the district on July 12, 1994.

6. A school district shall be eligible to transfer funds pursuant to subsection 7 of this section if:

(2) Prior to November 1, 1993, a school board adopted a resolution authorizing an action necessary to comply with subsection 9 of section 177.088, RSMo. A school district with a levy for school purposes no greater than the minimum levy specified in section 163.021, RSMo, and an obligation in the capital projects fund that satisfies at least one of the conditions specified in subsection 6 of this section, may transfer from the incidental fund to the capital projects fund the amount necessary to meet the obligation plus the transfers pursuant to subsection 4 of this section.

8. Beginning in the 1995-96 school year, the department of elementary and secondary education shall deduct from a school district's state aid calculated pursuant to section 163.031, RSMo, an amount equal to the amount of any transfer of funds from the incidental fund to the capital projects fund performed during the previous year in violation of this section.

9. On or before June 30, 1995, a school district may transfer to the capital projects fund from the balances of the teachers' and incidental funds any amount, but only to the extent that the teachers' and incidental fund unrestricted balances on June 30, 1995, are equal to or greater than eight percent of expenditures from the teachers' and incidental funds for the year ending June 30, 1995.

10. In addition to other transfers authorized under subsections 1 to 9 of this section, a district may transfer from the teachers' and incidental funds to the capital projects fund the amount necessary to repay costs of one or more guaranteed energy savings performance contracts to renovate buildings in the school district; provided that the contract is only for energy conservation measures, as defined in section 640.651, RSMo, and provided that the contract specifies that no payment or total of payments shall be required from the school district until at least an equal total amount of energy and energy-related operating savings and payments from the vendor pursuant to the contract have been realized by the school district."; and

Senator Bentley offered the following concurrent resolution:

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 35

WHEREAS, families are an important institution in this nation and in the state of Missouri; and

WHEREAS, the role that parents play in a child's life is important and the time that parents spend with children is crucial to the future of our society; and

WHEREAS, since 1965, the amount of time that parents spend with their children has dropped forty percent; and

WHEREAS, a 1993 study found that sixty-six percent of adults surveyed nationwide wanted to spend more time with their children; and

WHEREAS, in 1960, less than nineteen percent of married women were in the workforce who had a spouse present and children less than six years of age, yet today, more than sixty percent of such women are in the workplace; and

WHEREAS, currently, seventy-six percent of mothers with school-age children are in the workforce; and

WHEREAS, inflexible work schedules conflict with school hours, day care arrangements and family emergencies; and

WHEREAS, working parents, especially working mothers, require flexible working schedules so that they can take the time to tend to their children's needs; and

WHEREAS, federal law allows public employees to have flexible working schedules, so that such employees can balance the needs of work and family; and

WHEREAS, federal law prohibits employees in the private sector from having flexibility in work schedules which public employees currently enjoy; and

WHEREAS, in the interest of creating equity between private and public sector employment, and in the interest of promoting the importance of family obligations in our society, private sector employees should be allowed to have flexibility in their work schedules in order to meet their family and personal obligations; and

WHEREAS, such flexibility can be established by allowing employees to opt for paid flexible leave; and

WHEREAS, paid flexible leave would allow a private sector employee to choose to work hours in addition to a forty-hour work week, and use those extra hours as compensatory time for a shorter, future work week. Such flexibility could be met by allowing an employee to work eighty hours over a two-week period in any combination that the employee wishes, or by allowing the employee to take time-and-a-half off instead of time-and-a-half pay for any overtime hours worked. The decision to work a flexible schedule would be solely at the option of the employee, not the employer; and

WHEREAS, federal law prohibits such flexibility at the option of the private sector employee;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the members of the Missouri Senate of the Second Regular Session of the Eighty-ninth General Assembly, the House of Representatives concurring therein, that we respectfully urge the Congress of the United States to address this important issue by enacting legislation which would allow private sector employees to be able to choose paid flexible leave as set forth in this resolution; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Secretary of the Senate be instructed to prepare properly inscribed copies of this resolution to be transmitted forthwith to the President of the United States, the Speaker of the United States House of Representatives, the President of the United States Senate, and to each member of the Missouri Delegation of Congress.

Senator Rohrbach moved that the above substitute amendment be adopted.

Senator Caskey raised the point of order that SSA 1 for SA 2 is out of order as it is not a true substitute for SA 2 since it does not prohibit SA 2 from being offered later. President Pro Tem McKenna assumed the Chair.

SA 2 was again taken up.

Senator Sims moved that the above amendment be adopted, which motion prevailed.

The Senate met pursuant to adjournment.

Senator Wiggins in the Chair.

The Chaplain offered the following prayer:

Our Father in Heaven, we are thankful that in our nation more people are concerned about diet than where their next meal is coming from, about remodeling their house than where they will spend the night, the latest fashion rather than having clothes to wear. We are thankful for our abundance, but we know it is not shared by everyone. Teach us how to help the less fortunate, to minister to the needy and to lift up those who are down. Use us. In Jesus Name we pray. Amen.

Further amend said bill, page 16, section 643.210, line 3, by inserting immediately after said line the following:

"Section 1. 1. The legislature hereby finds and declares as follows:

(1) Emission reduction programs based on market principles have the potential to provide equivalent or superior environmental benefits when compared to existing controls at a lower cost to the citizens of Missouri than traditional emission control requirements;

(2) Studies have demonstrated that a small percentage of vehicles contribute disproportionately to the on-road emissions inventory. Programs to reduce or eliminate these excess emissions can significantly contribute to the attainment of the state's air quality goals;

(3) Programs to accelerate vehicle turnover can enhance the effectiveness of the state's new motor vehicle standards by bringing more low-emission vehicles into the on-road fleet earlier;

(4) A program for achieving those and more emission reductions should be based on the following principles:

(a) The first two years should include a thorough assessment of the costs and short-term and long-term emission reduction benefits of the program, compared with other emission reduction programs for vehicles, which shall be reflected in a report and recommendations by the commission to the governor and the legislature on strategies and funding needs for meeting the emission reduction requirements of the State implementation plan for the years 1999 to 2010, inclusive;

(b) The program should first contribute to the achievement of the emission reductions required by the inspection and maintenance program and the State implementation plan, and should permit the use of mobile source emission reduction credits for other purposes currently authorized by the commission. Remaining credits may be used to achieve other emission reductions, including those required by the State implementation plan, in a manner consistent with market-based strategies. Emission credits shall not be used to offset emission standards or other requirements for new vehicles, except as authorized by the commission;

(c) Participation by the vehicle owner shall be entirely voluntary and the program design should be sensitive to the concerns of car collectors and to consumers for whom older vehicles provide affordable transportation;

(d) The program design shall provide for real, surplus and quantifiable emission reductions, based on an evaluation of the purchased vehicles, taking into account factors that include per-mile emissions, annual miles driven, remaining useful life of retired vehicles and emissions of the typical or average replacement vehicle, as determined by the commission. The program shall ensure that there is no double counting of emission credits among the various vehicle removal programs;

(e) The program should specify the emission reductions required and then utilize the market to ensure that these reductions are obtained at the lowest cost;

(f) The program should be privately operated to the greatest degree feasible. It should utilize the experience and expertise gained from past and currently operating programs in the various states. Existing entities and programs in other states shall be fully utilized for purposes of implementing this section;

(g) The program should be designed insofar as possible to eliminate any benefit to any participants from vehicle tampering and other forms of cheating. To the extent that tampering and other forms of cheating might be advantageous, the program design shall include provisions for monitoring the occurrence of tampering and other forms of cheating;

(h) Emission credits should be expressed in pounds or other units, and their value should be set by the marketplace. Any contract between a public entity and a private party for the purchase of emission credits should be based on a price per pound which reflects the market value of the credit at its time of purchase.

2. Not later than December 31, 1998, the commission shall adopt, by regulation, a statewide program entitled "The Polluting Automobile Retirement Credit Program", which shall be known as "Parc", to commence in 1999, that does all of the following:

(1) Provides for the creation, exchange, use and retirement of vehicle mobile source emission reduction credits. The credits shall be fungible and exchangeable in the marketplace, and shall reflect the actual emissions of the vehicles that are retired or otherwise disposed of, by measurement, appropriate sampling, or correlations developed from appropriate sampling. The numerical value of credits may be constant over a defined lifetime, or may decline with age measured from the time of origination of the credits. In all cases, the numerical value of the credits shall reflect the useful life expectancies and the projected in-use emissions of the retired vehicles in a manner consistent with the assumptions used in determining the emissions inventory. The credits shall be fully recognized by the United States Environmental Protection Agency and the commission;

(2) Sets out the criteria for retiring or otherwise disposing of high-emitting vehicles purchased for this program;

(3) Authorizes the issuance of those credits to private entities that purchase or contribute towards the retirement of high-emitting vehicles;

(4) Authorizes the resale of those credits to public or private entities to be used to achieve the emission reduction requirements of the state implementation plan, meet the requirements of the inspection and maintenance program, satisfy compliance with other emission reduction mandates, as determined by the commission and the general assembly, create local growth allowances, or satisfy new or modified source emission offset requirements;

(5) Provides for the retirement of those credits when used;

(6) Includes accounting procedures to credit emissions reductions achieved through vehicle scrappage to the state implementation plan and the inspection and maintenance program.

3. (1) The commission, the department of natural resources, and the general assembly shall harmonize the requirements and implementation of this program with the motor vehicle inspection program and other programs as provided by or authorized under the revised statutes of Missouri.

(2) Insofar as practicable, these programs shall be seamless to the participants and the public.

4. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the program shall also do all of the following:

(1) Enable the resale of impounded vehicles into the retirement program, consistent with the acceptance criteria of this program;

(2) Authorize the department of revenue, at the request of persons engaged in the purchase and retirement of vehicles under the program, to send notices to vehicle owners who are candidates for the sale of vehicles under the program describing the opportunity to participate in the program;

(3) Allow the issuance of nonrevivable junk certificates for vehicles retired under the program, which shall allow program vehicles to be scrapped only for parts, except as provided by law.

5. (1) Any regulations adopted pursuant to chapter 536, RSMo, shall include a plan to guide the execution of the first two years of the program, to assess the results, and to formulate recommendations. Any emission credits assigned to vehicles shall be adjusted as necessary to ensure that those credits are consistent with and reflect the amount of mobile source pollution produced by the vehicle in question. The plan shall include a baseline study, for the geographical area or areas representative of those to be targeted by this program, of the current population of vehicles by model year and market value and the current turnover rate of vehicles, and other factors that may be essential to assessing program effectiveness, cost-effectiveness and market impacts of the program.

(2) At the end of each of the two calendar years after the adoption of the program plan, the commission, in consultation with the department, shall adopt and publish a progress report evaluating each year of the program. These reports shall address, at a minimum, the following topics:

(a) The number of vehicles scrapped or repaired by model year;

(b) The measured emissions of the scrapped or repaired vehicles tested during the report period, using suitable inspection and maintenance test procedures;

(c) Costs of the vehicles in terms of amounts paid to sellers, the costs of repair and the cost-effectiveness of scrappage and repair expressed in dollars per ton of emissions reduced;

(d) Administrative and testing costs for the program;

(e) Assessments of the replacement vehicles or replacement travel by model year or emission levels, as determined from interviews, questionnaires, diaries, analyses of vehicle registrations in the study region or other methods as appropriate;

(f) Assessments of the net emission benefits of scrapping in the year reported, considering the scrapped vehicles, the replacement vehicles, the effectiveness of repair and other effects of the program on the mix of vehicles and use of vehicles in the geographical area of the program, including in-migration of other vehicles into the area and any tendencies to increased market value of used vehicles and prolonged useful life of existing vehicles, if any;

(g) The report shall evaluate the overall performance of the program, including its cost-effectiveness in terms of dollars per ton of credited or reduced emissions, description of the methods and procedures to assure that the emission reductions are real, surplus and quantifiable, the extent of the market for eligible vehicles, a recommendation for an appropriate allocation of expenditures between removal or repair of vehicles that reflects the relative cost-effectiveness of the options, and any other recommendation for improving the effectiveness of these programs.

6. The commission shall develop standards for the certification and use of emission reduction credits to ensure that the credits are real, surplus and quantifiable after accounting for program uncertainties. Emission reductions achieved from eligible vehicles shall be quantified as follows:

(1) Vehicle emissions shall be based on either direct testing, statistical sampling or emission modeling methods. Sampling of a statistically significant portion of the vehicles may be used to estimate emission benefits or to develop and validate correlations for use in estimating emission benefits;

(2) A reasonably reliable mechanism shall be applied to estimate vehicle miles traveled and the remaining useful life of each purchased vehicle. The odometer reading shall be matched on each purchased vehicle with the records of the department of revenue to verify driving history, or statistical data shall be used to estimate vehicle use;

(3) An annual survey shall be performed of a statistically meaningful number of participants to determine replacement vehicle and post-participation behavior and also to determine the extent, if any, of in-migration of low-cost vehicles due to price increases in the scrapping market area resulting from the program."; and

Further amend the title and enacting clause accordingly.

SENATE SUBSTITUTE AMENDMENT NO. 1

FOR SENATE AMENDMENT NO. 9

Amend Senate Substitute for Senate Committee Substitute for Senate Bill No. 781, Page 16, Section 162.1060, Line 24, by inserting immediately after the word "residence" the following: ", provided that such reimbursement shall not exceed one hundred fifty-five percent of the statewide average per pupil cost for transportation for the 1997-98 school year"; and

Further amend said bill, page 49, section 163.031, line 19, by inserting immediately after all of said line the following:

"163.161. 1. Any school district which makes provision for transporting pupils as provided in section 162.621, RSMo, and sections 167.231 and 167.241, RSMo, shall receive state aid for the ensuing year for such transportation on the basis of the cost of pupil transportation services provided the current year. A district shall receive, pursuant to section 163.031, an amount not greater than seventy-five percent of the allowable costs of providing pupil transportation services to and from school and to and from public accredited vocational courses, and shall not receive an amount per pupil greater than one hundred twenty-five percent of the state average approved cost per pupil transported the second preceding school year, except when the state board of education determines that sufficient circumstances exist to authorize amounts in excess of the one hundred twenty-five percent of the state average approved cost per pupil transported the second previous year.

2. The state board of education shall approve all bus routes or portions of routes and determine the total miles each district should have for effective and economical transportation of the pupils and shall determine allowable costs. Under circumstances where the state board approves only a portion of a route, the costs for the disapproved portion shall not be considered allowable costs. The local school board, in its discretion, may continue that portion of the route unless that portion of the route was discontinued by the state board of education for safety reasons. When the local school board decides to continue that portion of the route, costs incurred shall be paid from local money or by the parents of the students living on that portion of the route under consideration. State aid for any other portion of the route which shall otherwise be approved shall not be affected. No state aid shall be paid for the costs of transporting pupils living less than one mile from the school. However, if the state board of education determines that circumstances exist where no appreciable additional expenses are incurred in transporting pupils living less than one mile from school, such pupils may be transported without increasing or diminishing the district's entitlement to state aid for transportation.

3. State aid for transporting handicapped and severely handicapped students attending classes within the school district or in a nearby district under a contractual arrangement shall be paid in accordance with the provisions of section 163.031 and an amount equal to seventy-five percent of the additional cost of transporting handicapped and severely handicapped students above the average per pupil cost of transporting all students of the district shall be apportioned pursuant to section 163.031 where such special transportation is approved in advance by the department of elementary and secondary education. State aid for transportation of handicapped and severely handicapped children in a special school district shall be seventy-five percent of allowable costs as determined by the state board of education which may for sufficient reason authorize amounts in excess of one hundred twenty-five percent of the state average approved cost per pupil transported the second previous year. In no event shall state transportation aid exceed seventy-five percent of the total allowable cost of transporting all pupils eligible to be transported; provided that no district shall receive reduced reimbursement for costs of transportation of handicapped and severely handicapped children based upon inefficiency.

4. No state transportation aid received pursuant to section 163.031 shall be used to purchase any school bus manufactured prior to April 1, 1977, that does not meet the federal motor vehicle safety standards."; and

2. For taxable years commencing on or after January 1, 1998, a qualified taxpayer shall be allowed a credit against the tax imposed by chapter 143, RSMo, exclusive of the provisions relating to the withholding of tax as provided in sections 143.191 to 143.265, RSMo, to the extent of the lesser of two thousand dollars times the number of eligible students for which the qualified taxpayer is allowed a credit pursuant to this section or the net expenditures made directly or through a fund during a taxable year by the qualified taxpayer for the participation of an eligible student in an approved sponsorship and mentoring program established pursuant to this section. No credit shall be allowed for any amounts for which any other credit is claimed or allowed under any other provision of state law for the same net expenditures.

If approved by the department, such students shall be considered eligible students for participation in an approved program.

6. The department of elementary and secondary education shall provide written notification to the department of revenue of each eligible student participating in an approved program pursuant to this section, the student's school district, the name of the qualified taxpayer approved to receive a tax credit on the basis of such eligible student's participation in an approved program pursuant to this section and the amount of such credit as determined in subsection 2 of this section."; and

"160.600. 1. A charter school is an independent, publicly supported school.

2. (1) Charter schools may be sponsored in a metropolitan school district or an urban school district containing most or all of a city with a population greater than three hundred fifty thousand inhabitants by the school board of the district or the state board of education, a four-year college or university located in Missouri with an approved teacher education program that meets regional or national standards of accreditation, a community college, or by the school board of the district in a district participating in an urban voluntary school transfer program on the effective date of this act, established pursuant to section 162.1060, RSMo.

(2) If an application is denied by a school board, the application may be submitted to the state board of education, along with the school board's written reasons for its denial, for review by the state board. If the state board finds that the proposed charter school would provide substantial educational benefit to the students of the district, the state board may grant a charter and act as the sponsor of the charter school.

3. No sponsor shall receive from an applicant for a charter school any fee of any type for the consideration of a charter, nor may a sponsor condition its consideration of a charter on the promise of future payment of any kind.

4. The charter school shall be a Missouri nonprofit corporation incorporated under chapter 355, RSMo. The charter provided for herein shall constitute a contract between the sponsor and the charter school.

5. A sponsor of a charter school, its agents and employees are not liable for any acts or omissions of a charter school that it sponsors, including acts or omissions relating to the charter submitted by the charter school, the operation of the charter school and the performance of the charter school.

160.603. 1. A person, group or organization seeking to establish a charter school shall submit the proposed charter, as provided in subsection 3 of this section, to a sponsor. The charter shall include a mission statement for the charter school, a description of the charter school's organizational structure and bylaws of the governing body, which will be responsible for the policy and operational decisions of the charter school, a financial plan for the first three years of operation of the charter school including provisions for annual audits, a description of the charter school's policy for securing personnel services, its personnel policies, and personnel qualifications, a description of the grades or ages of students being served, the school's calendar of operation, which shall include at least the equivalent of a full school term as defined in section 160.011, and an outline of criteria specified in this section designed to measure the effectiveness of the school. The charter shall also state:

(2) A description of the charter school's educational program and curriculum;

(3) The term of the charter, which shall be not less than five years, nor greater than ten years and shall be renewable;

(5) A description of the governance and operation of the charter school, including the nature and extent of parental, professional educator, and community involvement in the governance and operation of the charter school.

2. Proposed charters shall be subject to the following requirements:

(1) A charter may be approved when the sponsor determines that the requirements of this section are met and determines that the applicant is sufficiently qualified to operate a charter school. The sponsor's decision shall be made within sixty days of the filing of the proposed charter; and

(2) If the charter is denied, the proposed sponsor shall notify the applicant in writing as to the reasons for its denial.

3. If a charter is approved by a sponsor, it shall be submitted to the state board of education which may, within forty-five days, disapprove the granting of the charter. The state board of education may disapprove a charter only on grounds that the application fails to meet the requirements of sections 160.600 to 160.611.

4. Any disapproval of a charter pursuant to subsection 3 of this section shall be subject to judicial review pursuant to chapter 536, RSMo.

5. A charter school shall, as provided in its charter:

(4) Be financially accountable, provide for an annual audit by a certified public accountant, and provide liability insurance to indemnify the school, its board, staff and teachers against tort claims. For the purposes of securing such insurance, a charter school shall be eligible for the Missouri public entity risk management fund pursuant to section 537.700, RSMo;

(5) Provide a comprehensive program of instruction for at least one grade or age group up to grade twelve including kindergarten and early childhood education, as specified in its charter;

(6) Design a method to measure pupil progress toward the pupil academic standards adopted by the state board of education pursuant to section 160.514, collect baseline data during at least the first three years for determining how the charter school is performing and to the extent applicable, participate in the essential skills tests and the nationally standardized norm-referenced achievement tests, as designated by the state board pursuant to section 160.518, complete and distribute an annual report card as prescribed in section 160.522 and report to its sponsor, the local school district, and the state board of education as to its teaching methods and any educational innovations and the results thereof;

(7) Ensure that the needs of special education children are met in compliance with all applicable federal and state laws and regulations.

6. The charter of a charter school may be amended at the request of the governing body of the charter school and on the approval of the sponsor. The sponsor and the governing board and staff of the charter school shall jointly review the school's performance, management, and operations at least once every two years.

7. (1) A sponsor may revoke a charter at any time if the charter school commits a serious breach of one or more provisions of its charter or on any of the following grounds: failure to meet academic performance standards as set forth in its charter, failure to meet generally accepted standards of fiscal management, or violation of law.

(2) The sponsor may place the charter school on probationary status to allow the implementation of a remedial plan, after which, if such plan is unsuccessful, the charter may be revoked.

(3) At least sixty days before acting to revoke a charter, the sponsor shall notify the board of directors of the charter school of the proposed action in writing. The notice shall state the grounds for the proposed action. The school's board of directors may request in writing a hearing before the sponsor within two weeks of receiving the notice.

(4) The sponsor of a charter school shall establish procedures to conduct administrative hearings upon determination by the sponsor that grounds exist to revoke a charter. Final decisions of a sponsor from hearings conducted pursuant to this subsection are subject to judicial review pursuant to chapter 536, RSMo.

(5) A termination shall be effective only at the conclusion of the school year, unless the sponsor determines that continued operation of the school presents a clear and immediate threat to health and safety of the children.

8. A school district may enter into a lease with a charter school for physical facilities. A charter school may not be located on the property of a school district unless the district governing board agrees.

9. A governing board or a school district employee who has control over personnel actions shall not take unlawful reprisal against another employee at the school district because the employee is directly or indirectly involved in an application to establish a charter school. A governing board or a school district employee shall not take unlawful reprisal against an educational program of the school or the school district because an application to establish a charter school proposes the conversion of all or a portion of the educational program to a charter school. As used in this subsection, "unlawful reprisal" means an action that is taken by a governing board or a school district employee as a direct result of a lawful application to establish a charter school and that is adverse to another employee or an educational program and:

(1) With respect to a school district employee, results in one or more of the following:

(a) Disciplinary or corrective action;

(b) Transfer or reassignment;

(c) Suspension, demotion or dismissal;

(d) An unfavorable performance evaluation;

(e) A reduction in pay, benefits or awards;

(f) Elimination of the employee's position without a reduction in force by reason of lack of money or work;

(g) Other significant changes in duties or responsibilities that are inconsistent with the employee's salary or employment classification;

(2) With respect to an educational program, results in one or more of the following:

(a) Suspension or termination of the program;

(b) Transfer or reassignment of the program to a less favorable department;

(c) Relocation of the program to a less favorable site within the school or school district;

(d) Significant reduction or termination of funding for the program.

160.606. 1. A charter school shall enroll all pupils resident in this state who submit a timely application, unless the number of applications exceeds the capacity of a program, class, grade level or building. If capacity is insufficient to enroll all pupils who submit a timely application, the charter school shall have an admissions process that assures all applicants of an equal chance of gaining admission except that:

(1) A charter school may establish a geographical area around the school whose residents will receive a preference for enrolling in the school, provided that such preferences do not result in the establishment of racially or socio-economically isolated schools and provided such preferences conform to policies and guidelines established by the state board of education; and

(2) A charter school may also give a preference for admission of children whose siblings attend the school or whose parents are employed at the school.

2. A charter school shall not limit admission or otherwise discriminate on the basis of race, ethnicity, national origin, disability, gender, income level, proficiency in the English language or athletic ability, but may limit admission to pupils within a given age group or grade level.

3. A student in a charter school may opt to participate in athletic or other extracurricular activities of the school the student would otherwise attend in the student's district of residence unless the charter school offers the same activity. The charter school shall pay the reasonable costs of participating in the activity to the student's district.

160.609. 1. For the purposes of calculation and distribution of state school aid under section 163.031, RSMo, and except in a charter school located in a district which is participating in a voluntary transfer program where such rate per pupil shall be subject to negotiation between the district and the charter school, pupils enrolled in a charter school shall be included in the pupil enrollment of the school district within which each pupil resides, except that payment of state aid for such pupil shall be made by the department of elementary and secondary education to the charter school attended as provided in subsection 2 of this section and shall not be made to the pupil's district of residence. Each charter school shall report the names, addresses, and eligibility for free or reduced price lunch or other categorical aid, of pupils resident in a school district who are enrolled in the charter school to the school district in which those pupils reside and to the state department of elementary and secondary education. Each charter school shall promptly notify the state department of elementary and secondary education and the pupil's school district when a student discontinues enrollment at a charter school.

2. For each pupil attending a charter school, the department of elementary and secondary education shall pay to the charter school an annual amount equal to the per pupil state aid pursuant to section 163.031, RSMo, which would otherwise be received by the pupil's district of residence plus all other state aid attributable to such pupil, including summer school, if applicable, and the pupil's school district of residence shall pay to the charter school the product of the equalized, adjusted operating levy for school purposes for the pupil's district of residence for the current year times the guaranteed tax base per eligible pupil, as defined in section 163.011, RSMo, less the amount paid by the department to the charter school pursuant to this subsection. The district of residence of a pupil attending a charter school shall also pay to the charter school any other federal or state aid that the district receives on account of such child. The amounts provided pursuant to this subsection shall be prorated for partial year enrollment for a pupil.

3. If a school district fails to make timely payments of any amount for which it is the disbursal agent, the state department of elementary and secondary education shall authorize payment to the charter school of the amount due pursuant to subsection 2 and shall deduct the same amount from the next state school aid apportionment to the owing school district.

4. The charter school and a local school board may agree by contract for services to be provided by the school district to the charter school. The charter school may contract with any other entity for services. Such services may include but are not limited to food service, custodial service, maintenance, management assistance, curriculum assistance, media services, extracurricular activities, and libraries and shall be subject to negotiation between the charter school and the local school board or other entity. Documented direct and indirect costs of such services shall be paid for by the charter school.

5. A charter school may enter into contracts with community partnerships and state agencies acting in collaboration with such partnerships that provide services to children and their families linked to the school.

6. A charter school shall be eligible for transportation state aid pursuant to section 163.161, RSMo, and shall be free to contract with the local district, or any other entity, for the provision of transportation to the students of the charter school.

7. (1) The proportionate share of state and federal resources generated by students with disabilities or staff serving them shall be paid in full to charter schools enrolling those students by their school district where such enrollment is through a contract for services described in this section. The proportionate share of money generated under other federal or state categorical aid programs shall be directed to charter schools serving such students eligible for that aid.

(2) A charter school shall provide the special services provided pursuant to section 162.705, RSMo, and may provide such services pursuant to a contract with a school district or other provider of such services.

Money apportioned for free textbooks shall be credited to the free textbook fund. All money derived from taxation or received from any other source for the erection of buildings or additions thereto and the remodeling or reconstruction of buildings and the furnishing thereof, for the payment of lease purchase obligations, for the purchase of real estate, or from sale of real estate, schoolhouses or other buildings of any kind, or school furniture, from insurance, from sale of bonds other than refunding bonds shall be placed to the credit of the capital projects fund. Money derived from taxation for the retirement of bonds and the payment of interest thereon shall be credited to the debt service fund which shall be maintained as a separate bank account. Receipts from delinquent taxes shall be allocated to the several funds on the same basis as receipts from current taxes, except that where the previous years' obligations of the district would be affected by such distribution, the delinquent taxes shall be distributed according to the tax levies made for the years in which the obligations were incurred. All refunds received shall be placed to the credit of the fund from which the original expenditures were made. Money donated to the school districts shall be placed to the credit of the fund where it can be expended to meet the purpose for which it was donated and accepted. Money received from any other source whatsoever shall be placed to the credit of the fund or funds designated by the board.

teachers' fund. The board may transfer the portion of the balance remaining in the incidental fund to the teachers' fund that is necessary for the total payment of all contracted obligations to teachers. COMMUNICATIONS

President Pro Tem McKenna submitted the following:

March 30, 1998

Senator Bill McKenna

President Pro-tem, Missouri Senate

Room 326, State Capitol Bldg.

Jefferson City, MO 65101

Dear Bill:

Please accept my resignation as a Senate Representative to the Missouri Health Facilities Review Committee effective at the conclusion of today's public hearing scheduled in the Capitol. I have enjoyed my service on this committee and am confident the members will continue their dedicated work in a difficult field in the future.

As you know, I sponsored the legislation in 1979 which created the Certificate of Need Program. At that time it was a federal mandate which was withdrawn by the United States Congress some time ago.

I was the first Senator appointed to serve on the committee in its infancy and was successful in securing the election of Rabbi Herbert J. Mandl of Kansas City as the first Chairman. The Rabbi's enlightened leadership was primarily responsible for the program's success and its emergence as one of Missouri's foremost health programs. I left the committee in 1983 and in 1995, then President Pro-tem, Jim Mathewson asked me to return which I was glad to do.

I feel I have served my time and should make room for another Senator to share this experience. It is always a pleasure and honor to accept any duty and responsibility requested by the Senate and I am confident the members and staff of the Health Facilities Review Committee will continue to fulfill their duties with excellence and efficiency.

Sincerely,

/s/ Harry

Harry Wiggins

Also,

April 1, 1998

The Honorable Danny Staples

Missouri Senate

Capitol Building, Room 418

Dear Senator Staples:

Please be informed that I am hereby appointing you a member of the Missouri Health Facilities Review Board, Section 197.310, RSMo 1979, to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Senator Harry Wiggins.

If you have any questions or concerns please do not hesitate to contact me.

Sincerely,

/s/ Bill

"210.109. 1. The division of family services shall establish a child protection system [in eight areas of the state selected by the division] for the entire state.

2. The child protection system shall seek to promote the safety of children and the integrity and preservation of their families by conducting investigations or family assessments in response to reports of child abuse or neglect. The system shall endeavor to coordinate community resources and provide assistance or services to children and families identified to be at risk, and to prevent and remedy child abuse and neglect.

3. In implementing the child protection system, the division shall:

(1) Receive and maintain reports pursuant to the provisions of subsections 1 and 2 of section 210.145;

(2) Forward the report to the appropriate division staff who shall determine, through the use of protocols developed by the division, whether an investigation or the family assessment and services approach should be used to respond to the allegation. The protocols developed by the division shall give priority to ensuring the well-being and safety of the child. The division may investigate any report, but shall conduct an investigation involving reports, which if true, would constitute a violation of section 565.050, RSMo, if the victim is a child less than eighteen years of age, a violation of section 566.030 or 566.060, RSMo, if the victim is a child less than eighteen years of age, or any other violation of chapter 566, RSMo, if the victim is a child less than eighteen years of age and the perpetrator is twenty-one years of age or older, a violation of section 567.050, RSMo, if the victim is a child less than eighteen years of age, a violation of section 568.020, 568.030, 568.045, 568.050, 568.060, 568.080, or 568.090, RSMo, a violation of section 573.025 or 573.035, RSMo, or an attempt to commit any such crimes;

(3) Communicate reports of child abuse or neglect to the appropriate local office, pursuant to the provisions of subsection 4 of section 210.145;

(4) Contact the appropriate law enforcement agency upon receipt of a report of a violation of section 565.020, 565.021, 565.023, 565.024 or 565.050, RSMo, if the victim is a child less than eighteen years of age, a violation of section 566.030 or 566.060, RSMo, if the victim is a child less than eighteen years of age, or any other violation of chapter 566, RSMo, if the victim is a child less than eighteen years of age and the perpetrator is twenty-one years of age or older, a violation of section 567.050, RSMo, if the victim is a child less than eighteen years of age, a violation of section 568.020, 568.030, 568.045, 568.050, 568.060, 568.080, or 568.090, RSMo, a violation of section 573.025 or 573.035, RSMo, or an attempt to commit any such crimes, and shall provide such agency with a detailed description of the report received. The appropriate law enforcement agency shall assist the division in the investigation or provide the division, within a reasonable time, an explanation in writing detailing the reasons why it is unable to assist;

(5) Cause a thorough investigation or family assessment and services approach to be initiated within twenty-four hours of receipt of the report from the division, except in cases where the sole basis for the report is educational neglect. If the report indicates that educational neglect is the only complaint and there is no suspicion of other neglect or abuse, the investigation or family assessment and services approach shall be initiated within seventy-two hours of receipt of the report. If the report indicates the child is in danger of serious physical harm or threat to life, an investigation or family assessment and services approach shall include direct observation of the subject child within twenty-four hours of the receipt of the report;

(6) Investigate, if it is determined that an investigation is necessary, in compliance with the provisions of section 210.145;

(7) Assess, in cases where the family assessment and services approach is used, any service needs of the family. The assessment of risk and service needs shall be based on information gathered from the family and other sources;

(8) Provide services, in cases in which the family assessment and services approach is used, which are voluntary and time-limited unless it is determined by the division based on the assessment of risk that there will be a high risk of abuse or neglect if the family refuses to accept the services. The division shall identify services for families where it is determined that the child is at high risk of future abuse or neglect. The division shall thoroughly document in the record its attempt to provide voluntary services and the reasons these services are important to reduce the risk of future abuse or neglect to the child. If the family continues to refuse voluntary services or the child needs to be protected, the division may commence an investigation;

(9) Commence an immediate investigation if at any time during the family assessment and services approach the division determines that an investigation, as delineated in sections 210.109 to 210.183, is required. The division staff who have conducted the assessment may remain involved in the provision of services to the child and family;

(10) Document at the time the case is closed, the outcome of the family assessment and services approach, any service provided and the removal of risk to the child, if it existed;

(11) Conduct a family assessment and services approach on reports initially referred for an investigation, if it is determined that a complete investigation is not required. If law enforcement officers are involved in the investigation, they shall provide written agreement with this decision. The reason for the termination of the investigative process shall be documented in the record;

(12) Assist the child and family in obtaining services, if at any time during the investigation it is determined that the child or any member of the family needs services;

(13) Collaborate with the community to identify comprehensive local services and assure access to those services for children and families where there is risk of abuse or neglect;

(14) Contact the person who made the report under section 210.115, pursuant to the provisions of section 210.145;

(15) Forward any evidence of malice or harassment to the local prosecuting or circuit attorney as required by the provisions of section 210.145;

(16) Provide services as required by section 210.145;

(17) Use multidisciplinary services as required by section 210.145;

(18) Update the information in the information system within thirty days of an oral report of abuse or neglect. The information system shall contain, at a minimum, the determination made by the division as a result of the investigation or family assessment and services approach, identifying information on the subjects of the report, those responsible for the care of the subject child and other relevant dispositional information. The division shall complete all investigations or family assessments within thirty days, unless good cause for the failure to complete the investigation or assessment is documented in the information system. If the investigation or family assessment is not completed within thirty days the information system shall be updated at regular intervals and upon the completion of the investigation. The information in the information system shall be updated to reflect any subsequent findings, including any changes to the findings based on an administrative or judicial hearing on the matter;

(19) Maintain a record which contains the facts ascertained which support the determination as well as the facts that do not support the determination.

4. By January 1, 1998, the division of family services shall submit documentation to the speaker of the house of representatives and the president pro tem of the senate on the success or failure of the child protection system established in this section. The general assembly may recommend statewide implementation or cancellation of the child protection system based on the success or failure of the system established in this section.

 - (h) Suggested procedures for notifying the other party when a party requests a temporary variation from the residential schedule;
 - (i) Any suggested restrictions or limitations on access to a party and the reasons such restrictions are requested;

(2) A specific written plan detailing how the decision-making rights and responsibilities will be shared between the parties including the following:

- (a) Educational decisions and methods of communicating information from the school to both parties;
- (b) Medical, dental and health care decisions including how health care providers will be selected and a method of communicating medical conditions of the child and how emergency care will be handled;
- (c) Extracurricular activities, including a method for determining which activities the child will participate in when those activities involve time during which each party is the custodian;
- (d) Child care providers, including how such providers will be selected;
- (e) Communication procedures including access to telephone numbers as appropriate;
- (f) A dispute resolution procedure for those matters on which the parties disagree or in interpreting the parenting plan;
- (g) If a party suggests no shared decision-making, a statement of the reasons for such a request;

(3) How the expenses of the child, including child care, educational and extraordinary expenses as defined in the child support guidelines established by the supreme court, will be paid including:

- (a) The suggested amount of child support to be paid by each party;
- (b) The party who will maintain or provide health insurance for the child and how the medical, dental, vision, psychological and other health care expenses of the child not paid by insurance will be paid by the parties;
- (c) The payment of educational expenses, if any;
- (d) The payment of extraordinary expenses of the child, if any;
- (e) Child care expenses, if any;
- (f) Transportation expenses, if any.

5. If the proposed temporary parenting plans of the parties differ and the parties cannot resolve the differences or if any party fails to file a proposed parenting plan, upon motion of either party and an opportunity for the parties to be heard, the court shall enter a temporary order with a specific residential schedule and specific decision-making authority as well as temporary orders for child support and health insurance for the child which will remain in effect until further order of the court. The temporary order entered by the court shall not create a preference for the court in its adjudication of final custody, child support or visitation.

[4.] 6. The other party must be served in the manner provided by the rules of civil procedure and applicable court rules and may within thirty days after the date of service file a verified answer.

[5.] 7. Previously existing defenses to divorce and legal separation, including but not limited to condonation, connivance, collusion, recrimination, insanity, and lapse of time, are abolished.

452.340. 1. In a proceeding for dissolution of marriage, legal separation or child support, the court may order either or both parents owing a duty of support to a child of the marriage to pay an amount reasonable or necessary for [his] the support of the child, including an award retroactive to the date of filing the petition, without regard to marital misconduct, after considering all relevant factors including:

- (1) The financial needs and resources of the child;

- (2) The financial resources and needs of the parents;
- (3) The standard of living the child would have enjoyed had the marriage not been dissolved;
- (4) The physical and emotional condition of the child, and the child's educational needs, including the amount of time the child spends with each parent and the reasonable expenses associated with the custody or visitation arrangements; [and]
- (5) The child's physical and legal custody arrangements; and
- (6) The reasonable work-related child care expenses of each parent.

2. The obligation of the parent ordered to make support payments shall abate, in whole or in part, for such periods of time in excess of thirty consecutive days that the other parent has voluntarily relinquished physical custody of a child to the parent ordered to pay child support, notwithstanding any periods of visitation or temporary physical and legal or physical or legal custody pursuant to a judgment of dissolution or legal separation or any modification thereof. In a IV-D case, the division of child support enforcement may determine the amount of the abatement under this subsection for any child support order. In such cases, upon notification by the division, the circuit clerk shall record the amount of abatement on the child support trusteeship record established pursuant to this chapter and chapter 454, RSMo.

3. Unless the circumstances of the child manifestly dictate otherwise and the court specifically so provides, the obligation of a parent to make child support payments shall terminate when the child:

- (1) Dies;
- (2) Marries;
- (3) Enters active duty in the military;
- (4) Becomes self-supporting, provided that the custodial parent has relinquished the child from parental control by express or implied consent; or
- (5) Reaches age eighteen, unless the provisions of subsection 4 or 5 of this section apply.

4. If the child is physically or mentally incapacitated from supporting himself and insolvent and unmarried, the court may extend the parental support obligation past the child's eighteenth birthday.

5. If when a child reaches age eighteen, [he] the child is enrolled in and attending a secondary school program of instruction, the parental support obligation shall continue, if the child continues to attend and progresses toward completion of said program, until the child completes such program or reaches age twenty-one, whichever first occurs. If the child is enrolled in an institution of vocational or higher education not later than October first following graduation from a secondary school or completion of a graduation equivalence degree program and so long as the child enrolls for and completes at least twelve hours of credit each [term] semester, not including the summer semester, at an institution of vocational or higher education and achieves grades sufficient to re-enroll at such institution, the parental support obligation shall continue until the child completes his or her education, or until the child reaches the age of twenty-two, whichever first occurs. To remain eligible for such continued parental support, at the beginning of each semester the child shall submit to each parent a transcript or similar official document provided by the institution of vocational or higher education which includes the courses the child is enrolled in and has completed for each term, the grades and credits received for each such course, and the courses which the child is enrolled in for the upcoming term and the number of credits for each such course. If the circumstances of the child manifestly dictate, the court may waive the October first deadline for enrollment required by this subsection. If the child is enrolled in such an institution, the child or obligated parent may petition the court to amend the order to direct the obligated parent to make the payments directly to the child. As used in this section, an "institution of vocational education" means any postsecondary training or schooling for which the student is assessed a fee and attends classes regularly. "Higher education" means any junior college, college, or university at which the child attends classes regularly. A child who has been diagnosed with a learning disability, or whose physical disability or diagnosed health problem limits the child's ability to carry the number of credit hours prescribed in this subsection, shall remain eligible for child support so long as such child is enrolled in and attending an institution of vocational or higher education, and the child continues to meet the other requirements of this subsection. A child who is employed at least fifteen hours per week during the semester may take as few as nine credit hours per semester and remain eligible for child support so long as all other requirements of this subsection are complied with.

6. [At the parent's option, a parent may pay one-half of the college room, board, tuition, mandatory fees and book expenses of the child as a credit reduction in the amount of child support during the months when a child attends school, if such child is enrolled as a full-time student and living away from the family residence for a majority of the school year, unless provisions for payment of college expenses are specified in the parenting plan or court order; except that, if such payment of college expenses is less than the court-ordered child support, the parent shall pay the difference between such college expenses and the court-ordered payment as provided in the court order.] The court shall consider ordering a parent to waive the right to claim the tax dependency exemption for a child enrolled in an institution of vocational or higher education in favor of the other parent if the application of state and federal tax laws and eligibility for financial aid will make an award of the exemption to the other parent appropriate.

7. The general assembly finds and declares that it is the public policy of this state [to assure that the best interest of the child is] that frequent, continuing and meaningful contact with both parents after the parents have separated or dissolved their marriage is in the best interest of the child except for cases where the court specifically finds that such contact is not in the best interest of the child. In order to effectuate this public policy, a court with jurisdiction shall enforce visitation, custody and child support orders in the same manner. A court with jurisdiction may abate, in whole or in part, any past or future obligation of support and may transfer the physical and legal or physical or legal custody of one or more children if it finds that a parent has, without good cause, failed to provide visitation or physical and legal or physical or legal custody to the other parent pursuant to the terms of a judgment of dissolution, legal separation or modifications thereof. The court [may] shall also award, if requested and for good cause shown, reasonable expenses, attorney's fees and court costs incurred by the prevailing party.

8. Not later than October 13, 1989, the Missouri supreme court shall have in effect a rule establishing guidelines by which any award of child support shall be made in any judicial or administrative proceeding. Said guidelines shall contain specific, descriptive and numeric criteria which will result in a computation of the support obligation. By July 1, 1996, the guidelines shall address how the amount of child support shall be calculated when an award of joint physical custody results in the child or children spending substantially equal time with both parents. Not later than July 1, 1998, the child support guidelines shall be published by the supreme court and specifically list and explain the relevant factors and assumptions that were used to calculate the child support guidelines. Any rule made pursuant to this subsection shall be reviewed by the promulgating body not less than once every three years to ensure that its application results in the determination of appropriate child support award amounts.

9. [Beginning October 13, 1989,] There shall be a rebuttable presumption, in any judicial or administrative proceeding for the award of child support, that the amount of the award which would result from the application of the guidelines established pursuant to subsection 8 of this section is the correct amount of child support to be awarded. A written finding or specific finding on the record in a judicial or administrative proceeding that the application of the guidelines would be unjust or inappropriate in a particular case, after considering all relevant factors, including the factors set out in subsection 1 of this section, is required if requested by a party and shall be sufficient to rebut the presumption in the case. The written finding or specific finding on the record shall detail the specific relevant factors that required a deviation from the application of the guidelines.

10. Under this or any other chapter, when a court determines the amount owed by a parent for support provided to [his] a child by another person prior to the date of filing of a petition requesting support, or when the director of the division of child support enforcement establishes the amount of state debt due under subdivision (2) of subsection 1 of section 454.465, RSMo, the court or director shall use the guidelines established under subsection 8 of this section. The amount of child support resulting from the application of the guidelines shall be applied retroactively for a period prior to the establishment of a support order and the length of the period of retroactivity shall be left to the discretion of the court or director. There shall be a rebuttable presumption that the amount resulting from application of the guidelines under subsection 8 of this section constitutes the amount owed by the parent for the period prior to the date of the filing of the petition for support or the period for which state debt is being established. In applying the guidelines to determine a retroactive support amount, when information as to average monthly income is available, the court or director may use the average monthly income of the noncustodial parent, as averaged over the period of retroactivity, in determining the amount of presumed child support owed for the period of retroactivity. The court or director may enter a different amount in a particular case upon finding, after consideration of all relevant factors, including the factors set out in subsection 1 of this section, that there is sufficient cause to rebut the presumed amount.

452.355. 1. Unless otherwise indicated, the court from time to time after considering all relevant factors including the financial resources of both parties, the merits of the case and the actions of the parties during the pendency of the action, may order a party to pay a reasonable amount for the cost to the other party of maintaining or defending any proceeding under sections 452.300 to 452.415 and for attorney's fees, including sums for legal services rendered and costs incurred prior to the commencement of the proceeding or after entry of judgment. The court may order that the amount be paid directly to the attorney, who may enforce the order in his name.

2. In any proceeding in which the nonpayment of child support is an issue under the provisions of a temporary or permanent court order or decree, if the court finds that the obligor has failed[, without good cause,] to comply with such order or decree to pay the child support, the court shall order the obligor to pay a reasonable amount for the cost of the suit to the obligee, including sums for legal services. The court may order for good cause shown that the amount be paid directly to the attorney, who may enforce the order in his name.

3. For purposes of this section, an "obligor" is a person owing a duty of support and an "obligee" is a person to whom a duty of support is owed.

4. For purposes of this section, "good cause" includes any substantial reason why the defendant is unable to pay the child support as ordered. Good cause does not exist if the defendant purposely maintains his inability to pay.

452.373. 1. In cases involving custody or visitation issues, the court may, except for good cause shown or as provided in subsection 2 of this section, order the parties to the action to participate in an alternate dispute resolution program pursuant to supreme court rule to resolve any issues in dispute or may set a hearing in the matter. As used in this section, "good cause" includes, but is not limited to, noncontested custody or visitation cases, or a prior finding of domestic violence as determined by a court with jurisdiction after all parties have received notice and an opportunity to be heard, but does not mean the absence of qualified mediators.

2. Any alternate dispute resolution program ordered by the court pursuant to subsection 1 of this section shall:

(1) Be paid for by the parties in a proportion to be determined by the court, the cost of which shall be reasonable and customary for the circuit in which the program is ordered;

(2) Not be binding on the parties;

(3) Not be ordered or used for contempt proceedings, for enforcement of existing custody or visitation orders which are unambiguous or which designate specific times or specific periods, or for a motion for a family access order pursuant to section 452.400; and

(4) Not be ordered or utilized for child support issues.

3. Within sixty days after the effective date of this section, the Missouri supreme court shall publish a rule allowing, but not requiring, each circuit to establish an alternate dispute resolution program for contested custody and visitation proceedings within six months of the adoption of the supreme court rule.

452.375. 1. As used in this [section] chapter, unless the context clearly indicates otherwise:

(1) "Custody", depending on the context, means joint legal custody, legal custody, joint physical custody or physical custody or any combination thereof;

[(1)] (2) "Joint legal custody" means that the parents share the decision-making rights, responsibilities, and authority relating to the health, education and welfare of the child, and, unless allocated, apportioned, or decreed, the parents shall confer with one another in the exercise of decision-making rights, responsibilities, and authority;

[(2)] (3) "Joint physical custody" means an order awarding each of the parents significant, but not necessarily equal, periods of time during which a child resides with or is under the care and supervision of each of the parents. Joint physical custody shall be shared by the parents in such a way as to assure the child of frequent [and], continuing and meaningful contact with both parents.

2. The court shall determine custody in accordance with the best interests of the child. The court shall consider all relevant factors including:

(1) The wishes of the child's parents as to [his] custody[;

(2) The wishes of a child as to his custodian] and the proposed parenting plans submitted by both parties;

[(3)] (2) The interaction and interrelationship of the child with [his] parents, [his] siblings, and any other person who may significantly affect the child's best interests;

[(4)] (3) The child's adjustment to [his] the child's home, school, and community;

[(5)] (4) The mental and physical health of all individuals involved, including any history of abuse of any individuals involved. If the court finds that a pattern of domestic violence has occurred, and, if the court also finds that awarding custody to the abusive parent is in the best interest of the child, then the court shall enter written findings of fact and conclusions of law. Custody and visitation rights shall be ordered in a manner that best protects the child and the parent or other family or household member who is the victim of domestic violence from any further harm;

[(6)] (5) The needs of the child for a continuing relationship with both parents and the ability and willingness of parents to actively perform their functions as mother and father for the needs of the child;

[(7)] (6) The intention of either parent to relocate [his] the principal residence of the child [outside the state]; [and]

[(8)] (7) Which parent is more likely to allow the child frequent, continuing and meaningful contact with the other parent; and

(8) The wishes of a child as to the child's custodian.

3. The court shall not award custody of a child to a parent if such parent has been found guilty of, or pled guilty to, a felony violation of chapter 566, RSMo, when the child was the victim, or a violation of section 568.020, RSMo, when the child was the victim.

4. The general assembly finds and declares that it is the public policy of this state [to assure children] that frequent, continuing and meaningful contact with both parents after the parents have separated or dissolved their marriage is in the best interest of the child, except for cases where the court specifically finds that such contact is not in the best interest of the child, and that it is in the public interest to encourage parents to share decision-making rights and responsibilities of child rearing. In order to effectuate this policy, the court shall determine the custody arrangement which will best assure that parents share such decision-making responsibility and authority and such frequent, continuing and meaningful contact between the child and each parent, as is indicated in the best interests of the child under all relevant circumstances.

5. Prior to awarding the appropriate custody arrangement in the best interest of the child, the court shall consider [each of the following as follows] custody awards in the order of preference listed in subdivisions (1) to (5) of this subsection, except where there are no custody issues in dispute. The burden of coming forward with evidence that a particular custodial arrangement is not in the best interest of the child shall be upon the parent opposing such an award. In the event the court finds that a preferred custodial arrangement is not in the child's best interest and upon the request of a party, the court shall enter a written finding detailing the specific relevant factors that made such an arrangement not in the child's best interest and shall specify the custodial arrangement which the court finds is in the child's best interest. The order of preference shall be:

- (1) Joint physical and joint legal custody to both parents, which shall not be denied solely for the reason that one parent opposes a joint physical and joint legal custody award. The residence of one of the parents shall be designated as the mailing address of the child;
- (2) Joint physical custody with one party granted sole legal custody. The residence of one of the parents shall be designated as the mailing address of the child;
- (3) Joint legal custody with one party granted sole physical custody;
- (4) Sole custody to either parent; or

[(3)] (5) Third party custody or visitation:

- (a) When the court finds that each parent is unfit, unsuitable, or unable to be a custodian, or the welfare of the child requires, and it is in the best interests of the child, then custody, temporary custody or visitation may be awarded to any other person or persons deemed by the court to be suitable and able to provide an adequate and stable environment for the child. Before the court awards custody, temporary custody or visitation to a third person under this subdivision, the court shall make that person a party to the action;
- (b) Under the provisions of this subsection, any person may petition the court to intervene as a party in interest at any time as provided by supreme court rule.

6. Unless otherwise decreed, parents are obligated to exchange information with one another concerning the health, education and welfare of the child. In a decree of sole legal custody, [a court may provide that parents] unless the court specifically declares otherwise, the legal custodian shall [confer with one another in the exercise of decision-making rights, responsibilities and authority] discuss with the other parent any significant decision affecting the health, education or welfare of the child. Upon a finding by the court that either parent has refused to exchange information with one another, which shall include but not be limited to the health, education and welfare of the child, the court shall order the parent to comply immediately and to pay the prevailing party a sum equal to the prevailing party's cost associated with obtaining the requested information, which shall include but not be limited to attorney's fees and court costs.

7. As between the parents of a child, no preference may be given to either parent in the awarding of custody because of that parent's age, sex, or financial status, nor because of the age or sex of the child.

8. Any decree providing for joint custody shall include a specific written plan setting forth the terms of such custody. Such plan may be suggested by both parents acting in concert, or one parent acting individually, or if neither of the foregoing occurs, the plan shall be provided by the court. The plan may include a provision for mediation of disputes. In all cases, the joint custody plan approved and ordered by the court shall be in the court's discretion and shall be in the best interest of the child.

9. Unless [a noncustodial] a parent has been denied custody rights under section 452.375 or visitation rights under section 452.400, any judgment or decree of dissolution or other applicable court order shall, after August 28, 1998, specifically allow both parents access to records and information pertaining to a minor child, including, but not limited to, medical, dental, and school records[, shall not be denied to a parent because the parent is not the child's custodial parent]. If [a noncustodial] the parent without custody has been granted restricted or supervised visitation because the court has found that the [custodial] parent with custody or the child has been the victim of domestic violence, as defined in section 455.200, RSMo, by the [noncustodial] parent without custody, the court may order that the reports and records made available pursuant to this subsection not include the address of the [custodial] parent with custody or the child.

10. If any individual, professional, public or private institution or organization denies access or fails to provide or disclose any and all records and information, including, but not limited to, past and present dental, medical and school records pertaining to a minor child, to either [the custodial or noncustodial] parent upon the written request of such parent, the court shall, upon its finding that the individual, professional, public or private institution or organization denied such request without good cause, order that party to comply immediately with such request and to pay to the prevailing party all costs incurred, including, but not limited to, attorney's fees and court costs associated with obtaining the requested information.

11. An award of joint custody does not preclude an award of child support pursuant to section 452.340 and applicable supreme court rules. The court shall consider the factors contained in section 452.340 and applicable supreme court rules in determining an amount reasonable or necessary for the support of the child.

12. If the court finds that domestic violence has occurred, the court shall make specific findings of fact to show that the custody or visitation arrangement ordered by the court best protects the child and the parent or other family or household member who is the victim of domestic violence from any further harm.

452.377. 1. For purposes of this section and section 452.375, "relocate" or "relocation" means a change in the principal residence of a child for a period of ninety days or more, but does not include a temporary absence from the principal residence.

2. The residence of the child or any party entitled to custody or visitation of the child shall not be changed without first providing written notice by certified mail, return receipt requested, to any party with custody or visitation rights. Absent exigent circumstances as determined by a court with jurisdiction, written notice shall be provided at least sixty days in advance of the proposed relocation. The notice of the proposed relocation shall include the following information:

- (1) The intended new residence, including the specific address and mailing address, if known, and if not known, the city;
- (2) The home telephone number of the new residence, if known;
- (3) The date of the intended move or proposed relocation;
- (4) A brief statement of the specific reasons for the proposed relocation of a child, if applicable; and
- (5) A proposal for a revised schedule of custody or visitation with the child, if applicable.

3. A [person] party entitled to the custody of a child shall not [change] relocate the principal residence of the child to another state, or remove the child from this state for a period of time exceeding ninety days, or relocate the principal residence of the child more than fifty miles from the current principal residence of the child except upon order of the court or with the written consent of the parties with custody or visitation rights. Where [the noncustodial person] a party has been given custody or visitation rights by the custody decree, such court permission may be granted only after notice to the [person] party having custody or visitation rights and after opportunity for hearing.

4. A party required to give notice of a proposed relocation pursuant to subsection 2 of this section has a continuing duty to provide a change in or addition to the information required by this section as soon as such information becomes known.

5. In exceptional circumstances where the court makes a finding that the health or safety of any adult or child would be unreasonably placed at risk by the disclosure of the required identifying information concerning a proposed relocation of the child, the court may order that:

- (1) The specific residence address and telephone number of the child, parent or person, and other identifying information shall not be disclosed in the pleadings, notice, other documents filed in the proceeding or the final order except for an in camera disclosure;

(2) The notice requirements provided by this section shall be waived to the extent necessary to protect the health or safety of a child or any adult; or

(3) Any other remedial action the court considers necessary to facilitate the legitimate needs of the parties and the best interest of the child.

6. The court shall consider a failure to provide notice of a proposed relocation of a child as:

(1) A factor in determining whether custody and visitation should be modified;

(2) A basis for ordering the return of the child if the relocation occurs without notice; and

(3) Sufficient cause to order the party seeking to relocate the child to pay reasonable expenses and attorneys fees incurred by the party objecting to the relocation.

7. If the parties agree to a revised schedule of custody or visitation, they may submit the terms of such agreement to the court with a written affidavit signed by the parties assenting to the terms of the agreement and the court may order the revised schedule without a hearing.

8. The party seeking to relocate shall have the burden of proving that the proposed relocation is made in good faith and is in the best interest of the child.

9. If relocation is permitted:

(1) The court shall order contact with the nonrelocating party including custody or visitation and telephone access sufficient to assure that the child has frequent, continuing and meaningful contact with the nonrelocating party unless the child's best interest warrant otherwise; and

(2) The court shall specify how the transportation costs will be allocated between the parties and adjust the child support, as appropriate, considering the costs of transportation.

10. After August 28, 1998, every court order establishing or modifying custody or visitation shall include the following language: "Absent exigent circumstances as determined by a court with jurisdiction, you, as a party to this action, are ordered to notify, in writing by certified mail, return receipt requested, and at least sixty days prior to the proposed relocation, each party to this action of any proposed relocation of the principal residence of the child, including the following information:

(1) The intended new residence, including the specific address and mailing address, if known, and if not known, the city;

(2) The home telephone number of the new residence, if known;

(3) The date of the intended move or proposed relocation;

(4) A brief statement of the specific reasons for the proposed relocation of the child; and

(5) A proposal for a revised schedule of custody or visitation with the child.

Your obligation to provide this information to each party continues as long as you or any other party by virtue of this order is entitled to custody of a child covered by this order. Your failure to obey the order of this court regarding the proposed relocation may result in further litigation to enforce such order, including contempt of court. In addition, your failure to notify a party of a relocation of the child may be considered in a proceeding to modify custody or visitation with the child. Reasonable costs and attorney fees shall be assessed against you if you fail to give the required notice."

11. Violation of the provisions of this section or a court order under this section may be deemed a change of circumstance under section 452.410, allowing the court to modify the prior custody decree. In addition, the court may utilize any and all powers relating to contempt conferred on it by law or rule of the Missouri supreme court.

12. Any party who objects in good faith to the relocation of a child's principle residence shall not be ordered to pay the costs and attorney's fees of the party seeking to relocate.

452.400. 1. A parent not granted custody of the child is entitled to reasonable visitation rights unless the court finds, after a hearing, that visitation would endanger the child's physical health or impair his emotional development. [The court shall define the noncustodial parent's visitation periods in detail at the request of either party.] The court shall enter an order specifically detailing the visitation rights of the parent without physical custody rights. In determining the granting of visitation rights, the court shall consider evidence of domestic violence. If the court finds that domestic violence has occurred, the court may find that granting visitation to the abusive party is in the best interests of the child. The court shall not grant visitation to the parent not granted custody if such parent has been found guilty of or pled guilty to a felony violation of chapter 566, RSMo, when the child was the victim, or a violation of section 568.020, RSMo, when the child was the victim or an offense committed in another state, when the child is the victim, that would be a felony violation of chapter 566, RSMo, or section 568.020, RSMo, if committed in Missouri. The court shall consider the parent's history of inflicting, or tendency to inflict, physical harm, bodily injury, assault, or the fear of physical harm, bodily injury, or assault on other persons and shall grant visitation in a manner that best protects the child and the parent or other family or household member who is the victim of domestic violence from any further harm. The court, if requested by a party, shall make specific findings of fact to show that the visitation arrangements made by the court best protects the child or the parent or other family or household member who is the victim of domestic violence from any further harm.

2. The court may modify an order granting or denying visitation rights whenever modification would serve the best interests of the child, but the court shall not restrict a parent's visitation rights unless it finds that the visitation would endanger the child's physical health or impair his emotional development. When a court restricts a parent's visitation rights or when a court orders supervised visitation because of allegations of abuse or domestic violence, a showing of proof of treatment and rehabilitation shall be made to the court before unsupervised visitation may be ordered. "Supervised visitation", as used in this section, is visitation which takes place in the presence of a responsible adult appointed by the court for the protection of the child.

3. The court shall mandate compliance with its order by both [the custodial parent] parents and the child. [In the event of noncompliance,] If a parent has been granted specific or unambiguous visitation or custody rights, and such specific or unambiguous rights are denied or interfered with by the other parent, without good cause, the [noncustodial] parent having specific or unambiguous visitation or custody rights may file a motion for contempt[.] or a motion for a family access order.

4. By January 1, 1999, the state courts administrator shall develop a simplified form and instructions for use by persons filing pro se motions for family access orders pursuant to this section. The cost of filing the motion shall be the standard court costs plus a fee not to exceed twenty-five dollars. Motions for family access orders pursuant to this section shall be summarily heard, except as otherwise provided by this section, in the manner provided by sections 517.021 to 517.151, RSMo, by judges of the circuit court or by any commissioner of the circuit court authorized to hear such motions for family access orders. No continuance of a hearing relating to such a motion for a family access order shall be granted by the court except for extraordinary cause. Final disposition of the motion shall take place not more than forty-five days after service of such motion, except for good cause shown as determined by the court or by waiver of the parties. Final disposition shall not include appellate review.

5. Upon a finding by the court that its order for visitation or custody has not been complied with, without good cause, the court shall [define the noncustodial parent's visitation in detail and shall exercise its discretion in providing] provide a remedy, which shall include, but not be limited to, a compensatory period of visitation or [temporary] custody at a time convenient for the [noncustodial] parent denied visitation or custody not less than the period of time denied, [together with] and, if requested by a party and for good cause shown, a mandatory judgment in an amount not less than the reasonable expenses and court costs actually incurred by the [noncustodial] parent as a result of the denial of visitation or custody. Such order may include a provision that the sheriff or other law enforcement officer shall enforce the rights of either parent to custody or visitation, as the case may be, unless the court issues a subsequent order pursuant to chapters 210 or 211, RSMo, to limit or deny either parent's access to the child.

[4.] 6. The reasonable expenses, attorney's fees and court costs actually incurred as a result of a proceeding to enforce visitation or custody rights shall, if requested by a party and for good cause shown, be assessed against the parent who [unreasonably], without good cause, denies or interferes with visitation or custody. In addition, the court may utilize any and all powers relating to contempt conferred on it by law or rule of the Missouri supreme court.

7. The intentional denial or interference with visitation or custody of a child from the other parent, without good cause, shall constitute a change of circumstances which may justify a modification of custody.

8. For purposes of supreme court rule 51, motions filed pursuant to this section shall not be deemed to be an independent civil action if the judge or commissioner designated to rule on the motion is the same judge or commissioner that entered the order which is the subject of a motion for a family access order or contempt.

452.405. 1. Except as otherwise ordered by the court or agreed by the parties in writing at the time of the custody decree, the legal custodian may determine the child's upbringing, including his education, health care, and religious training, unless the court after hearing[,] finds, upon motion by the [noncustodial] parent without legal custody, that in the absence of a specific limitation of the legal custodian's authority the child's physical health would be endangered or his emotional development impaired.

2. The legal custodian shall not exercise legal custody in such a way as to significantly and detrimentally impact the other parent's visitation or custody rights.

[2.] 3. The court may order the county welfare office or the county juvenile officer to exercise continuing supervision over the case.

452.411. If either parent of a child changes his residence to another state, such change of residence of the parent shall be deemed a change of circumstances under section 452.410, allowing the court to modify a prior visitation or custody decree.

452.416. 1. Notwithstanding any other provision of law to the contrary, whenever a parent in emergency military service has a change in income due to such military service, such change in income shall be considered a change in circumstances so substantial and continuing as to make the terms of any order or judgment for child support or visitation unreasonable.

2. Upon receipt of a notarized letter from the commanding officer of a noncustodial parent in emergency military service which contains the date of the commencement of emergency military service and the compensation of the parent in emergency military service, the director of the division of child support enforcement shall take appropriate action to seek modification of the order or judgment of child support in accordance with the guidelines and criteria set forth in section 452.340 and applicable supreme court [rule 88.01] rules. Such notification to the director shall constitute an application for services under section 454.425, RSMo.

3. Upon return from emergency military service the parent shall notify the director of the division of child support enforcement who shall take appropriate action to seek modification of the order or judgment of child support in accordance with the guidelines and criteria set forth in section 452.340 and applicable supreme court [rule 88.01] rules. Such notification to the director shall constitute an application for services under section 454.425, RSMo.

4. As used in this section, the term "emergency military service" means that the parent is a member of a reserve unit or national guard unit which is called into active military duty for a period of more than thirty days.

452.423. 1. In all proceedings for child custody or for dissolution of marriage or legal separation where custody, visitation, or support of a child is a contested issue, the court may appoint a guardian ad litem. The court shall appoint a guardian ad litem in any proceeding in which child abuse or neglect is alleged. Disqualification of a guardian ad litem shall be ordered upon the filing of a written application by any party within ten days of appointment, or at least ten days before trial if the appointment occurs prior to the effective date of this act. Each party shall be entitled to one disqualification of a guardian ad litem in each proceeding, except a party may be entitled to more than one disqualification of a guardian ad litem for good cause shown.

2. The guardian ad litem shall:

- (1) Be the legal representative of the child at the hearing, and may examine, cross-examine, subpoena witnesses and offer testimony;
- (2) Prior to the hearing, conduct all necessary interviews with persons having contact with or knowledge of the child in order to ascertain the child's wishes, feelings, attachments and attitudes. If appropriate, the child should be interviewed;
- (3) Request the juvenile officer to cause a petition to be filed in the juvenile division of the circuit court if the guardian ad litem believes the child alleged to be abused or neglected is in danger.

3. The appointing judge shall require the guardian ad litem to faithfully discharge such guardian ad litem's duties, and upon failure to do so shall discharge such guardian ad litem and appoint another. The judge in making appointments pursuant to this section shall give preference to persons who served as guardian ad litem for the child in the earlier proceeding, unless there is a reason on the record for not giving such preference.

4. The guardian ad litem shall be awarded a reasonable fee for such services to be set by the court. The court, in its discretion, may award such fees as a judgment to be paid by any party to the proceedings or from public funds. Such an award of guardian fees shall constitute a final judgment in favor of the guardian ad litem. Such final judgment shall be enforceable against the parties in accordance with chapter 513, RSMo.

5. The court may designate volunteer advocates, who may or may not be attorneys licensed to practice law, to assist in the performance of the guardian ad litem duties for the court. The volunteer advocate shall be provided with all reports relevant to the case made to or by any agency or person and shall have access to all records of such agencies or persons relating to the child or such child's family members. Any such designated person shall receive no compensation from public funds. This shall not preclude reimbursement for reasonable expenses.

452.490. 1. The court may order any party to the proceeding who is in this state to appear personally before the court. If the court finds the physical presence of the child in court to be in the best interests of the child, the court may order that the party who has physical custody of the child appear personally with the child.

2. If a party to the proceeding whose presence is desired by the court is outside this state, with or without the child, the court may order that the notice given under section 452.460 include a statement directing that party to appear personally with or without the child.

3. If a party to the proceeding who is outside this state is directed to appear under subsection [2] 1 of this section or desires to appear personally before the court with or without the child, the court may require another party to pay to the clerk of the court travel and other necessary expenses of the party so appearing and of the child, if this is just and proper under the circumstances.

4. If the court finds it to be in the best interest of the child that a guardian ad litem be appointed, the court may appoint a guardian ad litem for the child. The guardian ad litem so appointed shall be an attorney licensed to practice law in the state of Missouri. Disqualification of a guardian ad litem shall be ordered upon the filing of a written application by any party within ten days of appointment, or at least ten days before trial if the appointment occurs prior to the effective date of this act. Each party shall be entitled to one disqualification of a guardian ad litem in each proceeding, except a party may be entitled to more than one disqualification of a guardian ad litem for good cause shown. The guardian ad litem may, for the purpose of determining custody of the child only, participate in the proceedings as if such guardian ad litem were a party. The court shall enter judgment allowing a reasonable fee to the guardian ad litem.

452.600. The circuit courts [of the fifth, sixth, twenty-third, twenty-ninth, thirtieth, thirty-first and thirty-eighth judicial circuits], by local rule, may establish a program of educational sessions for parties to actions for dissolution of marriage or in postjudgment proceedings involving custody or support, concerning the effects of dissolution of marriage on minor children of the marriage. In lieu of establishing such a program, the circuit court may, by local rule, designate a similar program of educational sessions offered by a private or public entity.

452.605. In an action for dissolution of marriage involving minor children, or in a postjudgment proceeding wherein custody [or support] of minor children is to be determined by the court, the court may [on its own motion], except for good cause, order the parties, including the minor children, to attend educational sessions concerning the effects of custody and the dissolution of marriage on children[, if the court finds that doing so would be in the best interests of the minor children]. As used in this section "good cause" includes, but is not limited to, situations where the parties have stipulated to the custody and visitation of the child, or a finding by a court with jurisdiction after all parties have received notice and an opportunity to be heard that the safety of a party or child may be endangered by attending the educational sessions."; and

Any such penalties shall be imposed by a court with jurisdiction, and may be modified or vacated by the court for good cause shown, and the division shall have no jurisdiction over such matters."; and

The court may waive such fee, in whole or in part, upon motion of the party and for good cause shown. Such fee shall be deposited in the "Family Access Fund" which shall be established in each county for the purpose of defraying the costs associated with family access motions filed pursuant to section 452.400, RSMo. Any circuit which does not have a family court shall establish a "Family Access Fund" within their circuit to aid in the payment of services offered by that circuit's courts pursuant to section 452.400, RSMo.

Section 2. No garnishment, withholding, or other financial legal proceeding shall be levied or maintained against a party whose child support obligation has been fulfilled or brought to term by such responsible party unless entered into voluntarily by such party or by court order. The burden of proving non-compliance of such party shall rest with the division of child support enforcement, and shall verify such non-compliance upon request."; and

(3) Confidential state employees;

(4) Temporary state employees employed for a period of four months or less;

(5) State employees serving as commissioned and enlisted personnel of the Missouri national guard;

The exclusive representative shall, as a condition of receiving such service fees, establish a procedure which provides the following protections to nonmembers of the exclusive representative who are required to pay such fees and object to paying all or a portion thereof:
 - (a) Notice, in writing, of the fee which will be payable, which may be expressed in a dollar amount or a percentage of the dues payable by members, and the basis upon which the exclusive representative has determined such fee;
 - (b) An opportunity to challenge such determination and receive a prompt decision from an impartial arbitrator, provided, however, that the selection of such arbitrator may not represent the unrestricted choice of the exclusive representative; and
 - (c) Escrowing of any portion of the service fee paid by a challenging state employee which is reasonably in dispute pending the arbitrator's determination.

Such agreement may require the payment of a service fee commencing thirty days after the beginning of employment or the effective date of such agreement, whichever is later.

Section 6. The state and a state employee organization which is the exclusive bargaining representative shall meet at reasonable times, including meetings reasonably in advance of the state's budget making process, to negotiate in good faith with respect to wages, hours, and other terms and conditions of employment. The collective bargaining agreement negotiated between the state and the exclusive bargaining representative shall contain a grievance resolution procedure which shall apply to all state employees in the bargaining unit and shall provide for final and binding arbitration of disputes concerning the arbitration or interpretation of the agreement including questions of arbitrability. The collective bargaining agreement negotiated between the state and the exclusive bargaining representative may also include a provision for the checkoff of initiation fees and dues to such labor organization or the payment of a service fee in lieu thereof as authorized by section 5 of this act. The state shall negotiate only with the exclusive bargaining representative on matters contained in this act. Such obligation to negotiate in good faith does not compel either party to agree to a proposal or make a concession.

Section 7. 1. It shall be a prohibited practice for any state or exclusive bargaining representative to refuse to negotiate in good faith with respect to the scope of negotiations as defined in section 6 of this act.

2. It shall be a prohibited practice for the state or its designated representative to:

- (1) Interfere with, restrain or coerce state employees in the exercise of rights granted by this act;
- (2) Dominate or interfere in the administration of any state employee organization;
- (3) Encourage or discourage membership in any state employee organization, committee, or association by discrimination in hiring, tenure, or other terms or conditions of employment, except that nothing in this act shall prohibit the discharge of any state employee for failure to comply with the terms of an agreement authorized by section 5 of this act;
- (4) Discharge or discriminate against any state employee because he or she has filed an affidavit, petition, or complaint or given any information or testimony under this act, or because he or she has formed, joined, or chosen to be represented by any exclusive bargaining representative;
- (5) Refuse to negotiate collectively with representatives of any state employee organization which is an exclusive bargaining representative as required in this act;
- (6) Deny the rights accompanying certification or exclusive recognition granted in this act;
- (7) Refuse to participate in good faith in any agreed upon impasse procedures or those set forth in this act; or
- (8) Refuse to reduce a collective bargaining agreement to writing and sign such agreement.

3. It shall be a prohibited practice for a state employee organization or its agents wilfully to:

- (1) Interfere with, restrain, or coerce any state employee with respect to any of the rights under this act or in order to prevent or discourage his or her exercise of any such right, including, without limitation, all rights under section 5 of this act;
- (2) Interfere, restrain, or coerce the state employee with respect to rights granted in this act or with respect to selecting a representative for purposes of negotiating collectively on the adjustment of grievances;
- (3) Refuse to bargain collectively with the state as required in this act;
- (4) Refuse to participate in good faith in any agreed upon impasse procedures or those set forth in this act; or
- (5) Violate the impasse provisions of this act, which hereby are made applicable to states, state employees and exclusive representatives.

4. The expressing of any views, argument, or opinion or the dissemination thereof, whether in written, printed, graphic or visual form, shall not constitute or be evidence of any unfair labor practice under any provisions of this act if such expression contains no threat of reprisal or force or promise of benefit.

Section 8. Proceedings against a party alleging a violation of section 7 of this act shall be commenced and shall take place in accordance with procedures established pursuant to chapter 295, RSMo.

Section 9. 1. Nothing in this act shall be construed to annul or modify any collective bargaining agreement entered into between the state and exclusive representative prior to the effective date of this act.

2. The board determination of an appropriate bargaining unit shall be upon petition filed by a state employee organization or upon its own initiative.

3. Within thirty days of receipt of a petition or notice to all interested parties if on its own initiative, the board shall conduct a public hearing, receive written or oral testimony, and promptly thereafter file an order defining the appropriate bargaining unit. The board determination of an appropriate unit shall not be subject to judicial review.

4. There may be statewide bargaining by a coalition of all exclusive representatives, irrespective of state bargaining unit, concerning wages, fringe benefits and those matters which have uniform applicability to all state employees. Nothing in this act shall be construed to prohibit supplementary bargaining on behalf of state employees in a bargaining unit or part of a bargaining unit concerning matters uniquely affecting those state employees, or coordinated or consolidated bargaining between two or more bargaining units concerning matters uniquely affecting those state employees.

Section 10. 1. Board certification of a state employee organization as the exclusive bargaining representative of a bargaining unit shall be upon a petition filed with the board by the state, state employee, or a state employee organization and an election pursuant to section 11 of this act.

2. The petition of a state employee organization shall allege that the state employee organization has submitted a request to the state to bargain collectively with a designated group of state employees. The petition will be accompanied by written evidence that thirty percent of such state employees are members of the state employee organization or have authorized it to represent them for the purposes of collective bargaining.

3. For the purpose of decertification, the petition of the state employee shall allege that a state employee organization which has been certified or recognized as the exclusive bargaining representative of an appropriate unit does not represent a majority of such state employees and that the petitioners do not want to be represented by a state employee organization or seek certification of a different state employee organization. Such petition shall be accompanied by written evidence that thirty percent of such state employees do not want to be represented by a state employee organization or seek certification of a different state employee organization.

4. The petition of the state shall allege that it has received a request to bargain from a state employee organization which has not been certified as the exclusive representative of the state employees in an appropriate bargaining unit.

5. The board shall investigate the allegations of any petition and shall give reasonable notice of the receipt of such petition to all state employees, state employee organizations, and states named or described in such petitions or interested in the representation question. The board shall call an election under section 11 of this act within thirty days of receipt of a petition unless it finds that less than thirty percent of the state employees in the unit appropriate for collective bargaining support the petition for decertification or for certification, or the appropriate bargaining unit has not been determined pursuant to section 9 of this act.

6. The hearing and appeal procedures shall be the same as provided for in section 8 of this act.

Section 11. 1. Whenever a petition is filed by a state employee or state employee organization continuing the signatures of at least thirty percent of the state employees in an appropriate bargaining unit, the board shall conduct a secret ballot representation election to determine whether the state employees in the appropriate bargaining unit wish to be represented by an exclusive bargaining representative. The ballot shall contain the names of the petitioning state employee organization, any state employee organization submitting within ten days of the initial petition a petition containing signatures of at least ten percent of the state employees within the appropriate bargaining unit, and any incumbent labor organization. The ballot shall also contain a choice of no representation.

2. If none of the choices on the ballot receives the vote of a majority of the state employees voting, the board shall, within thirty days, conduct a run-off election among the two choices receiving the greatest number of votes.

3. Upon written objections filed by any party to the election within ten days after notice of the results of the election, if the board finds that misconduct or other circumstances prevented the state employees eligible to vote from freely expressing their preferences, the board may invalidate the election and hold a second or subsequent election for the state employees.

4. Upon completion of a valid election in which the majority choice of the bargaining unit state employees voting is determined, the board shall certify the results of the election, and shall give reasonable notice of the order to all state employee organizations listed on the ballot, the states, and the state employees in the appropriate bargaining unit. A state employee organization which is the majority choice of the bargaining unit state employees voting in a valid election under this section shall be certified by the board as the exclusive bargaining representative for the bargaining unit state employees.

5. A petition for decertification or certification of an exclusive bargaining representative shall not be considered by the board for a period of one year from the date of the certification or noncertification of an exclusive bargaining representative or during the duration of a collective bargaining agreement not to exceed three years. A petition for decertification will not be considered during the duration of a collective bargaining agreement unless the collective bargaining agreement has been in effect for more than three years or the petition for decertification is filed not more than two hundred ten days and not less than one hundred eighty days prior to the expiration of the collective bargaining agreement.

Section 12. 1. The state employee organization certified as the bargaining representative or voluntarily recognized by the state upon proof that a majority of the state employees in an appropriate bargaining unit have authorized such state employee organization to represent them for purposes of collective bargaining under this act shall be the exclusive representative of all state employees in the bargaining unit and shall represent all state employees fairly, except that any individual state employee or a group of state employees shall have the right at any time to present grievances to their state and to have such grievances adjusted, without the intervention of the bargaining representative, as long as the adjustment is not inconsistent with the terms of a collective bargaining contract or agreement then in effect and the exclusive bargaining representative has been given the opportunity to be present at such adjustment.

2. The state employee organization which is an exclusive bargaining representative and the state may designate any individual or individuals as its representatives to engage in collective bargaining negotiations. Upon demand of either party, collective bargaining between the state and an exclusive bargaining representative must begin within sixty days of the date of certification of the representative by the board or in the case of an existing exclusive bargaining representative, within sixty days of the receipt by a party of a demand issued by the other party.

3. Negotiating sessions, including strategy meetings of states or exclusive bargaining representatives, mediation and the deliberative process of arbitrators shall be exempt from the provisions of chapter 610, RSMo. The exclusive bargaining representative shall present his or her initial bargaining position to the state at the first bargaining session. The state shall present his or her initial bargaining position to the exclusive bargaining representative at the second bargaining session, which shall be held no later than two weeks following the first bargaining session.

Section 13. Notwithstanding any other provisions of law to the contrary, the following shall be exempt from the provisions of sections 610.010 to 610.030, RSMo:

(1) All discussions between the chief executive officers of the state, or its representative, and the general assembly of the state relative to collective bargaining;

(2) The collective bargaining negotiations between the chief executive officer, or his or her representative, and an exclusive bargaining representative; and

(3) All work products developed by the state in preparation for negotiations, and during negotiations.

Section 14. It shall be lawful for state employees to strike.

Section 15. Any state employee organization and state may sue or be sued as an entity under the provisions of this act. Service upon the state or upon the exclusive bargaining representative shall be in accordance with law or the rules of civil procedure, except that for purposes of actions and proceedings by or against exclusive bargaining representatives under this act, the circuit courts shall be deemed to have jurisdiction of an exclusive bargaining representative in the circuit in which such organization maintains its principal office, or in any circuit in which its duly authorized officers or agents are engaged in representing or acting for state employee members. Nothing in this act shall be construed to make any individual or his assets liable for any judgment against the state or an exclusive bargaining representative.

Section 16. Any notice required under the provisions of this act shall be in writing, but service thereof shall be sufficient if mailed by restricted certified mail, return receipt requested, addressed to the last known address of the parties, unless otherwise provided in this act. Refusal of restricted certified mail by any party shall be considered service. Prescribed time periods shall commence from the date of the receipt of the notice. Any party may at any time execute and deliver an acceptance of service in lieu of mailed notice.

Section 17. Every state employee organization which is certified as a representative of state employees under the provisions of this act shall file with the board two copies of the state employee organization's constitution and bylaws. Filing by a national or international state employee organization of its constitution and bylaws shall be accepted in lieu of filing of such documents by each subordinate organization. All changes or amendments to such constitutions and bylaws shall be promptly reported to the board.

Section 18. In case of any conflict between the provisions of this act and any other law, executive order or administrative regulation, the provisions of this act shall prevail and control.

Section 19. The provisions of this act are hereby declared to be severable. Should any of the provisions of this act be declared unconstitutional or in conflict with some other provisions of law, the remaining provisions of this act shall continue to be the law of the state relative to public employment relations."; and

(9) "State employee", any individual employed by the state, except individuals exempted under the provisions of section 2 of this act;
